FLOOD DROWNS 300

BREAKING DAM MAKES DISASTER

MILAN, Dec. 1.—An unconfirmed report from Dazzo today said 300 persons were drowned in that township when the dam of a hydro-electric power plant broke, releasing a flood.

It was reported that two other nearby towns were also flooded

MILAN, Dec. 1.—Approximately one hundred persons were drofned or injured when the dam holding in Lake Gleno, an artificial lake, burst, sending eight million cubic feet of water thundering down upon the little town ships of Dezzo, Gueggio, and Teveno

The surrounding country as far as Corona was inundated.

The electric power house at the dam was totally destroyed.

Discuss Academic Welfare of Stars

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 1.—The academic welfare of the American University football star was considered by his professors today.

Recommendations that football schedules be so arranged that they will not interfere with class work were made in a communication from the University of Pittsburgh chapter read before the conference of the American association of University professors.

The distance which football teams travel to meet their opponents should be limited to overnight rides, the communication said.

This would eliminate the necessity of a grid squad devoting whole days away from their classes and would give them a better opportunity to get the education for which the colleges are maintained, according to the chapter's recommendation.

The proposal was filed with the association's secretary without a vote as to whether it had the approval of the meeting.

Liquor Case Placed in Hands of Jury

CHICAGO, Dec. 1—The Grommes and Ulrich liquor case, in which scores of prominent men and women testified, was placed in the hands of the jury here this afternoon. The government charges conspiracy to violate the dry law in the company's distribution of liquor as dividends.

Will Search for Lost Girl.

COLUMBUS, Neb., Dec. 1.—Following the disappearance Tuesday evening of Regina Karl, fourteen-year-old girl who has been attending the St. Francis academy and boarding at the institution, the sisters appealed to Sheriff Kavanaugh today to institute a search for her. On the pretense that she was not feeling well, she absented herself from supper Tuesday evening The sisters did not immediately report it to the county authorities because they thought she would either return or would go to the home of her parents in Hastings, Neb. Up to the present time she has done neither.

NAME GILLETTE FOR SPEAKER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Representative Gillette, Massachusetts, was overwhelmingly endorsed for speaker of the house by the republican caucus late today.

Gillette received 187 votes: Cooper Wisconsin, progressive bloc candidate 15; Madden, Illinois, 9 and Little, Kansas, 1.

WASHINGTON. Dec 1.—Three candidates for speaker of the house instead of the expected two were nominated before the republican caucus this afternoon.

Representative Kahn, California, nominated Representative Gillette, present speaker. Representative Browne, Wisconsin, nominated representative Cooper, Wisconsin, candidate of the progressive bloc. Representative Reid, Illinois nominated representative Madden, Illinois.

Progressives went into the caucus declaring they were there for a fight.

Sidney Anderson was made caucus chairman. Representative Nelson, Wisconsin, progressive bloc leader, asked if the caucus was to be binding. Anderson ruled it was not.

Claiming twenty-one "die hards," the progressives were prepared to enter the caucus to fight to the last ditch for liberalization of the house rules, the chief plank in their platform, adopted at yesterday's conference.

Conservative leaders, on the other hand, flatly refused to deal with the progressives, at whom they hurled a charge of obstruction.

Senators Nelson, Wisconsin, Woodruff, Michigan, and La Guardia, New York, the committee appointed by the progressive party to treat with the regular republican leaders, awaited in vain today for a committee from the other side

Representative Longworth, Ohio, was selected for republican floor leader by acclamation. There were only a few scattered votes against him

Longworth was nominated by Representative Madden, Illinois, and seconded by representative Snyder, New York

Recitulation of the vote on the speakership showed that Gillett got 190; Cooper 15; Madden 8 and Little 1.

This showed a total attendance of 214 with eleven absentees. In a brief speech, Gillett accepted the party's nomination for speaker.

WEALTHY COLORED PAIR WED

Miss Vae Walker Robinson, granddaughter of the famous Vme Walker negress who started life as a laundress and left a mill on dollar estate after investing a treatment to take the kinks out of negro hair, was married in New York to Dr Henry Gordon Jackson of Chicago

Eighteen hundred guests filled every available space in the large St Philips Protestant church and as many more whose carriages and limousines stretched for two blocks in every direction, were unable to enter

Gorgeous bouquets, rich gowns and jewels furnished the background for the ceremony as the first note of Lohengrin's wedding march swelled from the organ

The bride's dress was of sheer chiffon beaded with sea pearls over bride's satin A veil was attached to a Tut Ankh Amen head dress of pearls and was caught with orange blossoms

MUST DRAFT HENRY FORD

HURON, S. D., Dec 1.—If the voters want Henry Ford to be president of the United States, they will have to draft him, according to the "Henry Independent" a publication in behalf of Ford's candidacy, distributed here today among leaders of the democratic, republican and farmer labor parties gathered here to clean up details for their proposal convention in Pierre Monday.

The convention will select the state's slate of candidates.

The "Henry Independent" is published at Henry, S. D., near here Henry is the headquarters for the South Dakota Ford for President club.

The article, carrying the name of F. H. Hilderbrand, president of the club states in part:

"Henry Ford is not a candidate for the democratic nomination. Mr. Ford is not going to announce his candidacy. He is not going to throw his hat into the ring. He is not going to spend his money to buy a nomination. Mr. Ford is going to go serenely about his business and if the people of South Dakota and the rest of the United States desire him to lend his aid in directing the affairs of this country they will have to draft him into the service of the country."

NEBRASKA NEWS.

Columbus—Jim Heitkam was fined $400 and costs on four counts by County Judge John Gibbon following the arrest of Heitkam, Mrs. Heitkam and Mrs. Kate Korus, by Chief of Police Jack Lehman aided by state agents. During the raid officers found wine, beer and booch. Judge Gibbons levied fines of $400 which was promptly paid by Heitkam, and the liquor was destroyed under court order

INDIAN DANCES "DEGRADING," SAYS Y. W. C. A. WORKER; SEES EVIL IN "PAGANISM"

Picturesque members of the Smoki tribe, of Arizona, performing the intricate katcina, or "rain" dance. Inset, Miss Edith Dabb.

The famous Indian dances of the southwest, which have drawn to Prescott of visitors to that section of the country to view one of the most colorful survivals of a forgotten age must be modified so they will be more in the Indian spirit according to Miss Edith M Dabb secretary of the committee on Indian affairs of the Y. W. C. A.

Regarding the dances as degrading, vicious and detrimental to the welfare of the Indians, more than one hundred persons, including Miss Dabb, Commissioner of Indian Affairs Charles H. Burke, Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work, the department of the interior, Washington D. C. and others, will ask that the dances be modified or abolished.

The Indians claim the dances are more of a picturesque [illegible]

TOLD SHERIFF OF REATIONS

ARLENE SCOTT SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED AFFAIR.

Mrs. Scott Told Husband He Would Have Killed Her for Doing What He Did.

MOUND CITY, Kas., Dec. 1.—Testimony regarding alleged intimate relations between Arlene Scott and her uncle by marriage, John E. Scott, charged jointly with murdering the latter's wife, was presented today in the preliminary hearing of the accused couple

Sheriff A. J. Ellington testified that Arlene had confessed to him regarding improper relations between herself and Scott covering a period of two years previous to the killing of Mrs. Scott last June Arlene lived at the Scott home The slain woman was her aunt

Wilma Stahl, eleven-year-old niece of Scott, testified that following the murder she, Arlene and two other girls occupied one room and John Scott, an adjoining room for several nights. She told of incidents which the prosecution held indicated Arlene and Scott were on intimate terms.

Frequent complaints against her husband's alleged misconduct were made by Mrs. Ella Scott, according to testimony introduced today at the preliminary hearing.

Neighbors and workers around the Scott home and store in La Cygne placed on the witness stand by the prosecution told of Mrs Scott, previously to being slain last June, frequently scolding her husband.

E R. Peters, employed in the Scott grocery store, said on one occasion Mrs Scott told her husband: "If you caught me acting the way I caught you, you would have killed me."

Arlene was standing nearby crying at the time, Peters said.

Authorities charged a love affair between Arlene and Scott resulted in the alleged murder plot.

POLICE PREVENT LYNCHING

Hold Off Mob of Negroes Pursuing Fruit Dealer Who Shot Colored Man in Quarrel.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 1.—Police stood off a crowd of negroes with drawn revolvers this afternoon and prevented a threatened lynching of Joseph Giardano, who shot and killed an unidentified negro in his fruit store. Giardano had an argument with the negro over a month ago, regarding a bill.

Last week, the negro entered his store and cursed him for an hour and fifteen minutes Giardano said. He shot in self-defense this afternoon, he claimed.

DAKOTA STATE MEETS PLANNED

PIERRE, S D, Dec. 1.—South Dakota's politicians will toss the first stone into the 1924 presidential puddle next Tuesday

Three state conventions will be held simultaneously in separate chambers of the state capitol The elected delegates will formulate slates to go before the voters on March 25.

These are called proposal conventions. The republicans will meet in the house chamber, democrats in the senate chamber and farmer-laborites in the supreme court chamber. The farmer-labor party is successor to the non-partisan league, which had official standing in the state.

Nominations for endorsement will be made on the floor of each convention, for president, vice president and for state offices. Only a comparatively few delegates to each convention received instructions from the respective county conventions, held last month in each of the sixty-nine counties

What few delegations are instructed must perforce stick to their instructions thru the first three ballots, if that many are taken. Most likely many more than that will be taken

Instructed republican delegates are divided between Calvin Coolidge and Hiram Johnson There are only a handful of each. Of the democrats who are carrying instructions, a majority favor the candidacy of William G. McAdoo, and McAdoo's managers are on the ground seeking to line up enough delegates to assure a majority for him There are approximately 6,000 voters represented by delegates instructed for Henry Ford Since the county proposal conventions, however, it has been reliably stated on behalf of the Dearborn manufacturer that he will only be a candidate if he can run independently and unhampered by a political platform.

The farmer-labor convention is likely to endorse Robert M. LaFollette, United States senator from Wisconsin. Few delegates were instructed, however, and the farmer-labor convention is anybody's so far.

A majority vote on the floor of any of the thre econventions is sufficient to assure the printing of a man's name on the ballot.

If any group is dissatisfied with the majority vote, it may withdraw and hold a minority caucus, placing a minority candidate's name on the primary ballot. Then if anyone is left out who wants to get on the ballot, it only requires a petition carrying one per cent of the total vote cast for governor in any county. A declaration of purpose must be filed with the secretary of state by each and every candidate.

The conventions will meet Tuesday by noon. They will continue in session until all business is finished.

YEOMAN DENIES CHARGES

Secretary of Children's Home Committee Says No Basis for Sensational Accusations.

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 1.—"There is absolutely no basis for the implications made in the petition filed in district court here yesterday charging officers and directors of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen with having 'squandered large amounts of money,'" A. M. Farmer, secretary of the children's home committee, told the United Press today.

"While we regret the unfavorable publicity given us we are in a position to prove the rationality of every act of the officers of the organization in connection with the brotherhood's business."

Plans for the erection of the $5,000,000 children's home will go on and further consideration of a site will be given at a meeting of the board here December 10, Farmer said

FILE SUIT AGAINST HOSPITAL

To Foreclose Mortgage Bonds Aggregating Over $68,000.

COLUMBUS, Neb, Dec. 1. — The Home Builders, Inc., of Omaha has filed suit in district court against the Evans hospital company to foreclose mortgage bonds aggregating more than $68,000 of the Columbus hospital building, grounds and certain of the furnishings and equipment. The suit is filed to protect the interests of the holders of the 'first mortgage bonds at a sale of the hospital property to be held December 10 under court order in a prior foreclosure suit instituted by Frank T. Johnson on a second mortgage.

Fourteen Degree Drop in the North

FARGO, N. D., Dec. 1.—A fourteen degree drop in temperature in four hours brought the thermometer to 20 above zero at noon here today, and a northwest gale threatened zero weather for this section by night.

A little snow fell in North Dakota and northern Minesota. The rapidly lower temperature gave promise of the coldest weather of the year by night and possibly the lowest temperatures for early December in years.

REGULARS UNMOLESTED

Progressives Change Mind and Boycott Meeting.

LODGE AGAIN FLOOR LEADER

Curtis, Whip, and Wadsworth, Secretary of Caucus.

Lodge to Appoint Committees Within Few Days—Hiram Johnson Present But Made No Objection to Procedure.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Senate regular republicans proceeded with their organization unmolested in secret caucus today and unanimously chose all their candidates for the big jobs in the upper house of congress.

Progressives changed their minds at the last moment and boycotted the meeting.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was re-elected republican floor leader; Senator Curtis, republican whip, and Senator Wadsworth secretary of the majority caucus.

Lodge was authorized to appoint a committee on committees, a committee on patronage and a committee on order of business.

The sergeant at arms and other clerical officers of the majority remained the same.

No mention was made in the caucus of the peculiar situation resulting from the decision of Senator Cummins, Iowa, to retain the presidency of the senate and the chairmanship of the interstate commerce committee.

Among the progressives who absented themselves from the caucus were Senators Borah, Brookhart, Couzens, Frazier, Ladd, Lafollette, Norbeck and Norris. Absentees who have not yet arrived at the capital included Senators Colt, Couzens, McLean, Stanfield, Sterling and Norbeck.

Lodge declared he would appoint the specified committees within a few days.

Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, probably will retain his post as chairman of committee on committees; Senator Lenroot, Wisconsin as chairman of the committee on patronage, and Senators Lodge and Curtis as chairman and vice chairman of the steering committee.

Hiram Johnson, California, who recently announced his candidacy for president, was present but made no objection to the procedure.

Republican leaders were enthusiastic over the unanimity of opinion and the smoothness with which their organization functioned.

DESCRIBES CRUELTY OF JOHN BRANDEIS

Wife Granted Divorce, Declares Millionaire Frightened Her When He Found She Was to Become a Mother.

OMAHA, Dec. 1.—How her millionaire husband, finding her about to become a mother, lured her to a remote part of the African jungles at night, painted native guides a ghastly white and played a spotlight from a portable moving picture outfit on them as they danced a war dance, was told by Mrs. Emily Marie Ryan Colman Brandeis, in her suit for divorce from E John Brandeis, Omaha merchant and big game hunter.

When she fainted from fright, Brandeis left her lying all night in the jungle where she fell, she testified.

As a result of this horrible experience, the baby died according to her testimony.

The Brandeis' returned from Africa in September. On the boat coming home her husband attempted to throw her thru an open port hole. Mrs Brandeis testified. She was saved by Mike Cotter her African guide, who overpowered the husband.

Arriving at their palatial bungalow located on the roof of the Brandeis downtown store here, Brandeis beat her into unconsciousness with a jewel handled whip, she said. She exhibited fourteen scars where the whip sank into her flesh.

Mrs Brandeis was granted a divorce and restoration of her maiden name, Ryan. A property settlement said to be $2?,000 in cash and an additional $8,000 a year was made.

Mrs Brandeis is the former wife of Colman New York exporter. Brandeis to city was divorced from Madame Frank Brandeis, San Francisco on grounds of cruelty.

Brandeis an interstate big game hunter always takes a moving picture outfit with him and films incidents of the hunt. The couple were married on a hunting in Alaska

The decree license was signed today and a transcript of the testimony made available to da

TEST CASE ON BANK STOCKS

FINANCE HEAD TO REFUSE TENDER OF ONE-FOURTH.

Question of Whether Banks to Pay 25 Per Cent or 100 on Gap Between Stock and Physical.

The banks of Lincoln on the one hand and Commissioner Dayton and the city's legal department on the other, will become friendly enemies in a suit to try out the point of whether or not financial institutions shall pay the 1923 tax on a basis of 25 per cent or 100 per cent on intangibles represented by the difference between bank stock and bank physical property value.

After a conference with City Attorney Peterson, Mr. Dayton said that he will refuse the twenty-five per cent which the banks are tendering. This will mean a friendly test in court. The amount represented by the difference between twenty-five per cent and 100 per cent, according to the finance head is probably between $3,000 and $4,000.

Bankers base their contention on failure on the part of the legislature to correct an alleged defect. According to Mr. Peterson the question is raised as to whether or not the state law, declared invalid last year, was validated by the act of congress of March 3, 1923. The language of the old act provided that states could assess national bank stocks no higher than other moneyed capital. The new language of the act provides that states may now classify banks with money coming into competition with banks.

During the last session of the legislature, there was introduced a bill, S. F. 145, amending the state law along those lines as provided under the new act of congress. The bill passed the senate but was killed in the house.

Under the act of congress, states are given more leaveway in classification of banking stocks This, at least, presumably is the intent. A bank is assessed on intangibles to this extent—it pays for the shareholder.

JUDGE RULES ON EVIDENCE

MUST SHOW THAT CONFESSION WAS VOLUNTARY.

Differing Stories of Defendants, However, Are Getting Before the Jurors Hearing the Case.

SEWARD, Neb., Dec. 1.—The prosecution was balked for a time in the Vajgrt murder case this morning in its effort to get before the jury evidence in the form of a confession made by Adolph Vajgrt to Deputy County Attorney Barth on the Saturday following the murder. The court refused to permit the introduction of this statement because of lack of proper foundation and because there was no evidence to show that influence had not been used to compel the confession before witnesses who heard it had entered the room.

For the purpose of laying the foundation for the introduction of this evidence Chairman W. D. Stolz and George Bower of the board of supervisors, were called to the stand. They testified that they had been called in at the time the confession was made and that they, the sheriff, Mr. Barth and others were present. Vajgrt was asked if he had related the truth and he said he had. Both witnesses said the deputy county attorney had duly warned the defendant as to the effect of any statement he might have made. The statement was voluntary and no third degree methods had been used.

Mr. Stolz had gone with the county attorney to the Vajgrt farm on Saturday. At that time the stories told by the defendants differed. Mrs. Vajgrt had said at that time that Alby killed Vajgrt; that she was in the kitchen when she heard the shot and that she ran to the straw shed. Her husband had also heard the shot and had run toward the shed. They found Lana had been shot. They took their daughter to the house. She said Alby had shot Lana.

Alby was asked who killed Lana and she said she shot him. She had gone to the straw shed and there met Lana. He said he was going away. He displayed a revolver and she grabbed it. In the scuffle it was discharged. Lana had grabbed for his shot gun.

Vajgrt said he was not there at the time, the witness said, but when he arrived Lana was dead. He pulled the body back and covered it with straw so the children would not see it and so the chickens would not get at it.

Attorney Thomas for the defense asked a number of questions tending to impeach Mr Stolz. He asked

GERMANS BEG CONSUL VISAS

BESIEGE U. S. OFFICIAL AT BERLIN FOR SIGNATURE.

Notification by Steamship Companies That No More Passages Will Be Booked Because of Quota System.

BERLIN, Dec 1.—Hundreds of Germans today besieged the American consulate, begging visas for passports enabling them to sail for the United States.

The rush followed notification by the large steamship lines that no more passages will be booked owing to the American immigration quota system.

Many of the cases presented were pitiful in the extreme. Numbers of those applying for vises had sold their homes on the assumption they could go to America and earn their livelihood.

The United Press was informed at the consulate that no official notice had been received that the quota had been already exceeded, but it was assumed it soon would be full for the year

"We still are issuing visas, but only with the provision that the emigrants can obtain passage," it was said. The consulate is doing its utmost to send to the United States the worthiest cases, thus avoiding causing unnecessary hardship.

QUOTA FOR MEMORIAL

LANCASTER COUNTY TO RAISE $1,750 FOR HARDING FUND.

Organization and Campaign to Be Outlined at Big Meeting Wednesday at Chamber of Commerce.

Lancaster county people have been asked to give $1.750 toward the Harding memorial fund, S. R. McKelvie, county chairman, announced Saturday at a meeting of the advisory committee at the chamber of commerce. The intention is to raise this sum, and the whole $3,000,000 set as a goal, thru a great many small subscriptions. All who can will be asked to give a dollar, and smaller contributions will be welcome.

The $3,000,000 is to be expended in erecting a mausoleum for the late president and Mrs. Harding; for purchasing the Harding home in Marion, O., and for establishing a chair of diplomacy and functions of government in some American university.

The local organization will be perfected and the campaign planned at a meeting called by Governor McKelvie for Wednesday noon at the chamber of commerce. Two hundred persons from over the county will be specially invited, and anyone else interested will be welcomed. The advisory committee that met Monday, and to which several other members are to be appointed, consists of:

S. R. McKelvie	W. E. Hardy
J. C. Seacrest	J. P. Miller
Frank Eager	Richard Stout
E. B. Stephenson	E. R. Perry

The state campaign is to be led by John L. Kennedy of Omaha, who made Mr. McKelvie chairman for Lancaster county.

SUES BRANCH FOR DAMAGES

AUTOMOBILE COLLISION CAUSE OF A LAW SUIT.

Mrs. Augusta Heidenreich Files Claim for $27,800 Because of Injuries Received When Her Taxi Was Overturned.

Henry (Junior) Branch and his father H. H. Branch were named defendants in a $27,800 damage suit filed in district court Saturday forenoon by Mrs. Augusta Heidenreich for personal injuries she is alleged to have sustained in the collision which occured at Sixteenth and D streets September 20, from which Junior Branch escaped without giving his identity or offering aid or assistance. Mrs. Heidenreich was seriously injinjured when the taxi in which she was a passenger was overturned by the Branch car.

In her petition Mrs. Heidenreich alleges that the veins, arteries, tendons and muscles of her right arm were severed by broken glass to such a degree that she will be deprived of the use of her arm for the rest of her life.

Mrs. Heidenreich also claims that her right shoulder and three of her ribs were broken and that her whole body was generally bruised and badly lacerated and that she suffered a great loss of blood because of the negligence of Henry (Junior) Branch in running away from the scene of the accident without offering assistance in getting her to the hospital as soon as might have been done.

MAYOR TOOK HIS TURKEY

Able to Walk and Be About Much of the Time and Physician Expresses Delight.

Mayor Zehrung took his Thanksgiving turkey sitting up in the Chicago hospital where he is recovering from the effects of the second of two operations. He had the promise of another turkey to be cooked in a private Chicago oven.

Mrs. Zehrung, in a letter written Thursday, states that the mayor is able to walk and is up and about much of the time. The wound is healing nicely and the doctor expresses delight over his improvement. Mayor Zehrung becomes more restless as his condition improves and is impatient for coming of the day when he can board No. 5 for Lincoln.

Tom Hickey, former Lincoln citizen paid him a Thanksgiving visit.

SHORTER RUN FROM CASPER

BURLINGTON TO LEAVE THAT METROPOLIS LATER.

Will Give a Longer Business Day in That City for People Who Must Leave for East.

General Manager Flynn of the Burlington who was in the city Saturday said that plans had been made to change schedules on the Casper line so that people who have business in that metropolis of Wyoming could have a longer business day. The train that has been leaving there at 2:30 p. m. will leave about an hour and a half later, making connections that will bring them into Omaha and Lincoln at the same time as under the old schedule.

General Superintendent A. G. Smart of Alliance and General Passenger Agent Cotsworth of Omaha were present at the conference which resulted in a conclusion to shorten the time east of Casper.

Messrs Flynn and Smart reported work well under way on the new construction in Wyoming made necessary by the summer floods, where eleven miles of new road is being built after eight miles of new road had been completed. The new road in each instance is a change of location from the old, getting away from the Badwater river where the overflow was most serious

UNDERWRITERS TO ELECT

Life Insurance Agents Also Planning Big Meeting to Be Held in January.

Lincoln Life Underwriters will elect officers next month from the nominations submitted by the committee named at Saturday's meeting. Members of the committee are M. L. Palmer, D. J. Cravens and M. A. Hyde.

Plans were discussed for a big meeting to be held in January to which others than the members will be invited. A speaker high in insurance ranks will be invited from some other city, two possibilities having been discussed Monday.

Robbins also predicted much colder weather.

BRYAN MAY TAKE ACTION

SHERIFF QUINTON'S CASE IS NOW BEFORE HIM.

Asks Attorney General to Say Whether Matter Comes Under the New Law Enforcement Act.

Governor Bryan indicated Saturday that he may take action toward the removal of Sheriff Carl D. Quinton of Cass county who has been indicted on the charge of protecting bootleggers. The governor did not confirm the report that the grand jury that returned the indictment requested him to remove the sheriff. "My recollection is the document received at this office," said the governor "is a copy of the indictment and it related only to the case of the sheriff, not to county attorney or chief of police or constable. As I understand it the grand jury asked that a copy of the indictment against the sheriff be sent me and the clerk of the court complied with that request. I have asked the attorney general to investigate for the purpose of ascertaining whether the case falls under the old law or the amended law of 1923 adopted by the legislature. It is reported the charges against the sheriff date back one year. If that be true it is possible the governor could not act under the new law which went into effect this year and which authorizes the governor to direct prosecution and to suspend officials who do not enforce laws when it is their duty to enforce them and also authorizes the governor temporarily to fill the vacancies by appointment. Under the old law the governor could merely direct prosecution for ouster in the supreme court and in the event that body finds the official guilty the county board would fill the vacancy by appointment."

Sheriff Quinton has been in office eighteen years and since the adoption of the prohibition law has arrested more bootleggers and confiscated more booze cars than any sheriff outside of Lancaster and Douglas counties.

OFFICERS WERE ON HAND

Psuedo Prohibition Agent Killed When He Calls on August Hartman Near Falls City and Companion Arrested.

FALLS CITY, Neb., Dec. 1. — An attempted blackmailing was frustrated and ended with the killing of Robert Burdette, 38, Grenola, Kas., pseudo prohibition agent and arrest of Paul Wanser, also of Grenola, at the farm of August Hartman, eight miles northeast of this city at 8 o'clock last night. Two other accomplices, said to be Richardson county residents, are being sought. Either Sheriff Albert R. Young or his deputy Al Smith, fired the fatal shot during the scuffle with the two would-be blackmailers. Neither was able to remember who fired during the excitement. According to Hartman, the two men, flashing badges and a bogus document representing themselves as prohibition agents, called on him late Wednesday and threatened to arrest him on the charge of the alleged sale of liquor to a neighboring farmer. They promised to hush the matter on the payment of six thousand dollars but later compromised on twelve hundred dollars, telling Hartman they would call for the money at 8 o'clock Friday night. Hartman immediately notified the sheriff. At 6 o'clock Friday the men called but as the sheriff had not yet arrived Hartman asked the men to return two hours later for the money declaring that he was still short the required sum. Two hours later the men returned in a motor car leaving the motor running. Wanser came to the door of the Hartman home while Burdette remained in the car. Hartman invited Wanser in the house but the latter refused. Sheriff Young and Deputy Smith, who had been secreted in the house, then dashed out and covered Wanser with guns. Burdette, seeing his pal in distress, got out of th ecar but was driven back by Smith at the point of a gun. According to Smith, both Wanser and Burdette made motions as if reaching for guns and then a shot rang out in the darkness, Burdette falling over dead. Guns were found on Burdette and Wanser and it is said neither was loaded. An inquest will be held today.

FILE LARGE DAMAGE SUIT

AGAINST BRADFORD-KENNEDY COMPANY AND A. D. RAY.

W. R. Isard Asks $30,000 for Punctured Lung and Ten Broken Ribs Sustained in Crash.

A suit for $30,000 for personal injuries sustained in an accident was filed in the district court Saturday morning against the Bradford-Kennedy company and A. D. Ray, by William R. Isard who claims to have been injured in an accident resulting from the alleged carelessness of the defendant A. D. Ray.

Mr. Isard in his petition claims that on May 25, 1923 about 6:30 in the evening he was riding in a car driven by August Burdin as Mr. Burdin's guest According to Mr. Isard they were on the D. L. D. highway between Lincoln and Milford and were traveling in a westerly direction about twenty miles an hour, when a Studebaker car driven by Mr. Ray at the rate of about 40 miles an hour in an easterly direction, swerved off its course and struck them head on

As a result of the accident Mr. Isard claims that ten of his ribs were broken, one of his lungs was punctured, his scalp was lacerated and his entire body and spine was badly twisted to such a degree that he has been totally incapacitated from the work as a foreman painter for which he was paid in excess of $6.00 a month

In addition to the $?0,000 for personal injuries sustained Mr. Isard asks that he be granted $4,?5? as recompense for money expended by him for hospital and medical attention and services

VESUVIUS AGAIN ACTIVE

Edge of Cone Topples Into Interior But Observatory Director Thinks Situation Not Alarming

NAPLES Dec 1— Mount Vesuvius became suddenly active during the night. The sky reflected a tremendous glare from the volcano's crater, while an edge of the cone apparently toppled into the interior.

Professor Malladra, director of the observatory, thinks the phenomenon not alarming.

An earthquake, lasting three seconds, was reported at Ceprano, where inhabitants fled to the street. No damage was caused.

ASKS MORE DETAILS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The United States has asked for further details concerning the reparations commission's plan for an inquiry into Germany's financial status before replying to the invitation for American participation in that inquiry, it was learned on high authority here today.

ROAD BOSS IN BAD SMASHUP

OVERTON SHAKEN UP BUT NOT SERIOUSLY HURT.

City Car Struck at Intersection of Sixteenth and P Streets by Buick—Driver Placed Under Arrest.

Road Boss Overton was mauled about in a city car at 10:30 a. m. Saturday when struck at the intersection of Sixteenth and P streets bya Buick driven by Fred Hansen. Both cars were partially demolished. Mr. Hansen was not hurt and though shaken up, the assistant superintendent of streets was not injured. He called the police and Hansen was arrested on a charge of speeding, Street Commissioner Cowgill reached the intersection shortly after the crash and drove Overton to the city building on Haymarket square.

Hansen's address was taken by the street department head as Havelock. The police blotter gives it as Davey. Mr. Overton said that he was driving south on Sixteenth and that when he entered the intersection he was traveling not to exceed eight miles an hour. He said that the Buick, going west on P, was traveling at from fifteen to twenty miles an hour. Hansen, he said, crashed into him at about the center of the intersection, the front of the Buick plowing into the rear fender and wheel.

The Star was whirled completely around and then shot over to the west side of the intersection. For several seconds, according to Overton, it was balanced on two wheels and seemed undetermined whether or not to topple over. It finally came back to an upright position with fender shattered, one wheel broken, running board badly dented and one axle broken. The Buick engine died from the impact. The front end was badly shattered.

"Overton had the right of way for two reasons," said Commissioner Cowgill "He was the man on the right and he was first to reach the intersection."

Much comment was heard in city hall circles over the fact that Overton was in a Star instead of his old Ford. Some weeks ago when Commissioner Cowgill made the attempt to purchase a Star for the assistant superintendent, Commissioner Dayton blocked the deal and went so far as to bring Overton in as a witness. The road boss said at the time that he would rather wear his Ford out.

It now develops that he has been using the Star for a month or more. This car was purchased last spring for the alley inspector. Work in the alleys has tapered off and the inspector's car has been used by the road boss It is a city car carrying the city's identification brand Mr. Cowgill insists that for the protection of the city and the public every car used in the city service should be branded. The state legislature recently passed a bill along this line in connection with state car

IN THE LINCOLN CHURCHES

GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY.

Golden Rule Sunday offerings for Near East relief will be received in the churches Sunday. All who wish to give and who have not been supplied with the regular envelope are asked to put their gift in a sealed envelope marked "Near East Relief" and place it on the collection plate or in the box to be found in the vestibule of the church.

Monday noon there will be a called meeting of the full membership of the Council of Churches for the consideration of important matters. Lunch will be served in the second floor club room at 12 o'clock to all who make reservations early Monday morning. Judge Morning will give a brief report of progress thus far made in the "Rent A Ford" matter, and two or three other big projects of the council will be presented for discussion. The full council includes 120 ministers and laymen. The first Monday in the month is the time for the regular meeting of the executive committee, but it was thought that the matters to come up at this time were important enough to demand the attention of the entire body.

The Lincoln churches are deeply interested in the promotion of world peace and are therefore asked to assist the league of women voters in securing for Mrs. Catt a capacity audience. Many of the midweek services have been set for an earlier hour so that those who attend may reach the church before 8:15.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

COOLIDGE IN PEACE ROLE

TRIES TO SMOOTH OUT MISSOURI POLITICAL TROUBLES.

Receives National Committeeman and Representatives, in Effort to Bring About Republican Harmony.

By Lawrence Martin.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Following out his program of smoothing various state situations, President Coolidge today took up Missouri.

He received at the white house J. L. Babler, republican national committeeman from Missouri; Representative Dyer, Representative Faust and former Representative Rhodes.

Missouri republicans are divided into a number of factions, but Mr. Coolidge has been advised that it is possible to bring about party harmony in support of his candidacy. This border state is always the scene of a terrific campaign battle and is considered by his political advisers a fruitful field for the president's personal "harmony efforts."

The state g. o. p. has been split over appointment of a federal judge, one of those authorized under the law increasing the federal judiciary. This split has held up the appointment, tho the law has been effective more than a year. Mr. Coolidge was urged today to settle this matter by sending to the senate the nomination of a judge early in the session.

The question of a republican national committeeman also requires settlement. Babler, now national committeeman, is slated for retirement. He has rather tentatively indicated his willingness to retire voluntarily, providing agreement can be reached as to his successor without causing a squabble in the party. Mr. Coolidge may be of assistance there also.

Governor Arthur Hyde recently reported to the president that Missouri was for him. Hyde is one of the bitterest opponents of the Harding world court plan. He said some months ago that virtually all Missouri republicans are likewise against it.

Mr. Coolidge has not made known his position on the court, but if Gov. Hyde was right in his appraisal of Missouri sentiment on the court and if Mr. Coolidge, following out his pledge to support the policies of President Harding, should declare for the court, it is evident that the Coolidge candidacy will require some strengthening in Missouri.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

The older residents of Lincoln gathered at Holy Trinity church for the funeral services of Captain William C. Heddleson.

Frank H. Roberson, the traveler and lecturer, had returned from Manila to the home of his father, W. H. Roberson, in Omaha. He expected to deliver one or two lectures in Lincoln, his pictures including some he had taken of the First Nebraska boys in Manila.

Miss Bertie Clark was visiting her aunt, Mrs. Eli Plummer, and receiving a warm welcome from her old friends and schoolmates.

The manager of the university football team was called to task for allowing games with teams other than those of educational institutions—with the Denver athletic club, for example.

One of the students at Lincoln Normal told a story of the fire which seemed to point toward incendiarism. He said the same person had made efforts to burn the building down before he finally succeeded.

The Cheese and Cracker club came to life after suspended animation lasting two years.

FIRE AT DES MOINES COLLEGE

Twenty-five Thousand Loss to Osteopathic Institution.

DES MOINES, Dec. 1.—Fire starting on the fourth floor of the Des Moines Still college of Osteopathy, caused damage estimated at $25,000 early this morning.

The blaze is believed to have started in the large assembly or clinic room, spreading from there to the laboratories. The blaze was confined to the top floor.

The loss to the school in equipment is estimated at $10,000. Damage to the building was said to be about $15,000. All damage is covered by insurance.

MAKING DECOY DUCKS.

KINSTON, N. C., (By Mail)—An odd industry is in full swing on the coast east of here. Decoys are being carved for the winter shooting season. Hundreds of left-over pieces from ship timbers and carpenters' beams are fashioned into wooden ducks and geese in a season. It takes an expert to make a decoy, and when some skilled whittlers of the "banks" have finished with them it takes an expert to tell one from a real bird resting on the water. Frequently the decoys are taken in heavy from shot which have struck them.

STAR VAN MOVES MAN

And the Cars Came
Railroads Make Good on Promise to Move All Business Offered

A low freight rate and no cars in which to ship is as unsatisfactory as a low price for bread and no bread.

Heretofore, fall harvest has brought a widespread car shortage. Last year it was 140,000 cars. This year there is generally a surplus of cars throughout the country and especially of box cars in the West and Northwest, notwithstanding the roads are handling the greatest volume of business in their history.

There's a Reason!

For 1923, all the railroads of the United States joined in a co-operative effort and with a defined program to improve traffic conditions and to establish new standards of service, even excelling pre-war records. In fulfilling this program, 134,636 new freight cars and 2,963 new locomotives were put in service between January and October, 1923, a larger number than in any similar period within the past ten years.

Remarkable progress has been made in reducing the number of locomotives and cars awaiting repairs. 86.3% of the locomotives and 93.3% of the cars being in serviceable condition in October.

More railroad coal has been placed in stock pile storage and more commercial coal dumped at Lake Erie ports than in any previous year, thus making equipment available for other necessary traffic during peak periods.

From an average movement of 22 miles per car per day, (including idle time) in 1921, the railroads made 29.2 miles in September, 1923.

In the 42 weeks from January 1 to October 20, 1923, the railroads loaded and moved 40,545,920 cars, which was an increase of 18% over 1922 and 10% over the record year of 1920.

Isn't this a splendid tribute to the efficiency of the carriers and the co-operation of shippers?

The roads are spending this year 700 million dollars for new equipment and 400 million dollars for other improvements. Years ago James J. Hill, the great railroad builder of the Northwest, said that the roads must spend one billion dollars every year for additions and betterments to keep abreast of the country's growing traffic, but this is the first year in twelve that the railroads have found it possible to obtain that amount. Such expenditures have a vital bearing on national prosperity, contributing to the expansion of industry and employment of labor, increasing the demand for products of mine, forest and farm.

This $1,100,000,000 being spent in 1923 is almost entirely new money, and not taken from earnings. The expenditure is based on the conviction that the American people will encourage compensatory rates and discourage attempts to embarrass the railroads in their efforts to provide adequate service. It is not predicated on present earnings for even in this record breaking year, it is unlikely that the roads will earn the 5.75% on their valuation permitted by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Transportation Act, but which if they do not earn they do not get.

Anti-railroad laws produce no freight cars.

Constructive suggestions are always welcome.

C. E. GRAY,
President.

CAMPAIGN IN ISLE CLOSES

BRITISH ELECTIONEERING IS MOST HEATED IN HISTORY.

Lloyd George Was Star, Adopting American Devices to Attract Attention, With Ramsay MacDonald a Close Second.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Today marks the close of one of the speediest, most hectic fortnights in the history of British election campaigns, which will increase in intensity until Thursday.

David Lloyd George is easily the star of the campaign. Reinvigorated by his American tour, the former premier is adopting for the first time American devices, such as amplifiers and broadcasters. He has been setting a hot pace, with from ten to fifteen meetings daily in the north of England and in Wales.

Ramsay MacDonald, labor's candidate for the premiership, is a close second as a popular attraction.

Premier Stanley Baldwin, conservative, not only is not an impressive speaker, but on account of his duties at Downing street is able to devote only a part of his time to electioneering. The conservatives apparently are unworried, however.

A prevailing impression continues that the conservatives probably will remain in the house of commons, altho their present edge probably will be seriously reduced, with the liberals gaining most of the seats which the Baldwin party loses.

It is expected that the labor party will increase materially their present representation, if, in fact, they retain their present numbers.

Stock exchange betting today was at even money that the conservatives secure a majority of from thirty-three to thirty-five over all other parties combined.

Bookmakers are offering odds of 4 to 1 against the conservatives obtaining a majority of 100 or more, 5 to 1 against a liberal majority and 50 to 1 against a labor majority.

Airplanes are being used in the campaign for the first time. Today an American aviator, Sperry, who placed himself and his plane at the disposal of the liberal party, set out on the first official flight, carrying an urgent message from London to Oxfordshire.

HOOCH MEN GOT IN WAY

That's Why E. Flynn Tried to Move Them So He Could Rebuild Railroad.

The story has leaked out among railroad men that General Manager Flynn of the Burlington lines west made a failure in his first flyer in Wyoming politics. During several months the last summer Mr. Flynn was a rather constant resident of Bonneville. Much of that town was washed out by flood and while the suffering was rather acute on the part of the railroad, the residents, not a great many in number, escaped without serious losses.

The establishment of construction headquarters at Bonneville after the flood brought a rather large population and some of this population was rather dry, notwithstanding the surrounding country had very recently gone very wet. By the time the population got there the bootleggers had arrived and some of the stuff offered for sale was about as bad as anybody makes or sells anywhere.

Mr. Flynn was too busy with a big job to turn reformer but when the bootleg whisky began to interfere with work and reduce personal safety in that neighborhood he took a few hours off to see what could be done. The governor of Wyoming came to his aid and the two worked about all the strings they could to shut out the bootleggers. They did not entirely succeed and vile whisky that made men want to shoot up the town was sold. Even a Burlington special agent got nicked in the shoulder by a bullet one day when a man filled with moonshine rode thru the camp and shot at everything in sight. It is explained that the special agent got shot once only, because he was in sight once only.

Word has come from Bonneville that while the result of the foray against vice on the part of Mr. Flynn was not entirely successful that continuing attempts have put one of the sellers in jail and placed another under heavy bonds for trial in the near future.

Mr. Flynn denies that he resided in Wyoming for political reasons. He wasn't trying to reform the state nor to direct its political action. He was trying to rebuild a railroad and the bootleggers there got in his way.

M'CRAY NOT TO RESIGN

Indiana Governor Indicted for Forgery, Embezzlement and Larceny Denies Rumors.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 1.—Warren T. McCray today put an end to all rumors that he intended resigning because of the indictments returned by the Marion county grand jury yesterday charging him with forgery, embezzlement and larceny.

"I propose to go right ahead with the performance of my duties as governor of the state of Indiana, and give the people of the state the same conscientious fidelity that I have given thruout my entire administration," he said.

McCray expressed keen disappointment that he was not permitted to go before the grand jury and testify before it made its report.

"I feel sure that if I had been permitted to apepar, and present the facts I could have helped the jurors reach a just and correct conclusion," he said.

The governor asked the public to withhold judgement until the whole story was told.

TRADE TREND IS HOPEFUL

SEVENTH FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICT STATEMENT.

Business in Middle West Steadily Improving—Slowing Down Tendencies in Coal, Iron and Steel Industries.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Business in the middlewest is steadily becoming better, according to the monthly report of the seventh federal reserve district, made public here today.

Except for scattering exceptions, the report stated, there is "a substantial volume of activity, easily maintained under favorable credit, but conservatively controlled."

Slowing down tendencies have appeared in coal production and in iron and steel output, the report said.

Agricultural conditions are generally improved. Husking returns show the corn yield slightly less than last year in Iowa and Wisconsin, but more in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan. Hogs are being marketed earlier and with less corn finish than previously. Potato yield was less in Iowa and Wisconsin and more in Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan. Tobacco production increased 8 per cent. Growing wheat is going into the winter in good condition.

Altho several coal mines in the bituminous field of Illinois were closed due to insufficient demand, the total coal production for the state was practically normal, the report said.

The wholesale merchandising trade reported spotted but generally satisfactory conditions.

The mail order business was the largest of any month since March, 1920.

Car loadings were heavier than any month this year.

The building trades showed continued improved conditions with contracts and permit awarded going still higher.

NEBRASKANS WIN IN STOCK JUDGING

Livestock Exposition in Chicago Opens With Victory for State Juniors—11,000 Blooded Animals on Show.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—The curtain went up today on the world's greatest barnyard show.

To a crashing discord of bellowing, bleating, grunting, whinnying, mooing and stamping of hoofs, the international livestock exposition was open to the public.

Approximately 11,000 blooded animals are on display—the greatest collection of thorobreds ever gathered together in one place, according to the management of the show.

Thirty states and four Canadian provinces have entered their prize livestock. Boxed off in hundreds of pens in and around the vast international amphitheater at the stockyards are the fattest hogs, glossiest horses, biggest percherons, best proportioned bulls and cows, with shining records for milk and butter, and sheep with the longest and softest wool.

Hundreds of prizes will be awarded during the week. The show concludes next Saturday.

Today the intercollegiate livestock judging contest was the principal feature. Teams of students from a score of American and Canadian agriculture colleges competed. Last year the Iowa state college team carried off the highest honors.

Nebraska carried away first honors in the junior livestock judging contest, with teams representing high schools in a score of states competing. The winning score of the Nebraskans was 1,535 points. Oklahoma juniors were second, California third, Virginia fourth and Indiana fifth.

For individual honors. Representatives ofIndiana and Oklahoma tied for first place with Virginia third and Missouri fourth.

Gerald Jenny, representing the Wisconsin college of agriculture, was announced as winner of the annual essay contest, sponsored by the Saddle and Sirloin club. He competde against a field of 180 aggie students.

West Virginia was second and Kansas third in this event.

VIOLATE THE PARKING LAW

George M. Christian Is Fined on Fourth Offense by Judge Chappell Saturday.

George M. Christian, 2640 Sewell, faced his fourth offense in police court Saturday on a charge of violating the two hour parking ordinance. He was fined $4 and costs.

Dr. H. W. Orr was dismissed by Judge Chappell of a charge of violating the two hour parking ordinance. The grounds of dismissal being that the doctor was performing a surgical operation while his auto remained overtime in the congested area. H. N. Thomas, 206 Gantor building, was fined $1 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of fracturing the parking ordinance. A case against J. H. Wheeler, 1115 F, involving a similar charge, was continued until Monday. J. L. Fox, 2236 D, failed to appear to answer a charge.

GARY ADVOCATES TAX CUT

Opposes Cancellation of Allied Debts and Condemns Soldier Bonus and the League.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States steel corporation, in a speech in town hall, advocated reduction of taxation, opposed cancellation of allied debts to the United States and condemned the soldier bonus.

He announced he was opposed to the league of nations, altho once in favor of it.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I have written to you once before but did not see my letter in print, but after reading D's letter in today's paper I could not resist the temptation to try again.

Now before I was married I was a strong healthy girl. Could do any amount of work without tiring. I learned cooking and housekeeping from A to Z. I loved babies. I read some of the best books on the feeding and care of babies to say nothing of the things I read in magazines and what I learned from mothers and trained nurses.

First when we were married I kept my house spotless and myself neat and clean but I never heard a word of praise about anything from either my husband or his family. Sometimes I would ask John if I looked nice or if the house looked nice. He would always say he couldn't see any difference or tell me how mother used to do. Whenever his people would come to see us they would always look around for something to find fault with; it was always you ought to do this or you ought to do that and it anything went wrong they would have a good laugh. Everything we did was always talked over with his folks. Whatever they said was law at our house. When our baby was born my mother-in-law thought it was her chief duty to see that it was properly cared for. Overheated house, no fresh air and rocking day and night and all the rest that goes with the old-fashioned baby tending. When she came in the house she acted as if the baby belonged to her and I was a little naughty kid to boss around. I got so that I was always mad, I couldn't help it, I didn't care how I looked or how my house. In fact I wasn't able to do the work altho I looked healthy. To describe my feelings most I felt as if I wanted to kick and scream. If I would have believed in divorce I would surely have been divorced or at least attempted it then. I didn't care to go out any place, I was certainly not in the mood and I hated to have anyone come because I was always so tired and my house never clean.

Now if D would sit down and think things over, put herself in her sister-in-law's place she would certainly see things different. Maybe her sister-in-law is doing all she is able to do. In any case it is her home, her wishes are to be respected. If the in-laws could only get it into their heads that every couple that gets married are starting a home of their own and the relatives have no more business there than in their neighbors' homes there would be far less trouble in this world. In conclusion I want to add that by a turn of fate my husband and his people were made to see themselves thru my eyes and so the machinery of our home is now running smoothly.—One Who Has Had Experience.

A. That is an interesting experience. I only wish you had told us what the "turn of fate" was—so that perhaps some other troubled wife might benefit.

Dear Mary Gordon: As a reader of your column, I find many helpful suggestions and wish to know if you could tell how to make the home made dress forms, such as the extension department of the agricultural college teaches the rural club women to make.—A Mother.

A. The process of making dress forms is too intricate to be solved without the aid of a demonstration. If you will see Mrs. Harrison, at the Clinton community center, she will be able to help you.

Dear Mary Gordon: Has the custom of saying "thank you" departed with other old fashioned things? My experience lately would seem to indicate that, as I have received not even a formal note of thanks from anyone to whom I have sent wedding or graduating presents. I have had occasion to send a good many such gifts upon the selection of which I spent much time and thought. It used to be considered a bride's first duty, after the honeymoon, to write her notes of thanks. Common gratitude and decency would seem to indicate such a course, but perhaps it is no longer considered necessary.—An Inquirer.

A. It is still the bride's and graduate's duty to write notes of thanks—a gross breach of etiquet to neglect it.

How to Burn Coal.

How do you burn your coal? Are you getting all the heat out of it you should, or are you one of the majority that is paying nearly twice as much in fuel bills as you should?

According to S. S. Wyer, fuel expert with the Smithsonian Institution, the American public knows very little about the proper use of fuel. Observe the following rules for burning anthracite, bituminous coal and coke, and you probably will lop 25 to 50 per cent off your heat bills this winter:

Anthracite.

1. Carry a deep fuel bed, 5 to 10 inches thick, so that it will not burn thru in spots and admit a large excess of air.
2. Shake the grate to remove ashes, but stop before live coals appear in ashes.
3. Fresh fuel should be spread evenly over the entire grate area.
4. Be sure to leave one visible bright spot of live coal to ignite the gases coming off the freshly-fired fuel. In this way the gases from the coal will be burned gradually and will not accumulate in the firepot and burn with an explosion.
5. After firing, keep the dampers wide open until blue flame appears, then check off the draft as much as necessary to keep fire burning at desired rate.

Bituminous.

1. Bituminous coal requires more draft and attention than anthracite or coke.
2. Shake down ashes once a day. Then shake only until the glow of the fire is seen in the ash-pit, not until burning coals appear.
3. Pull clinkers out; do not try to work them thru the grates.
4. A deep fuel bed is desirable.
5. Stir up the fire and get it hot before adding new fuel.
6. Work the partly burned coal, from which the gas has been driven, to one part of the fire and throw the fresh coal on the remaining portion.
7. Leave visible bright spot of live coal to ignite the combustible gases coming off the freshly-fired coal.

Coke.

1. Carry a deep bed of fuel—a bed about 18 inches thick gives the best results.
2. Use very little draft after the fire is started, and keep it always under control.
3. Do not stir the fuel; clean the fire in the morning if possible.
4. Do not allow ashes to accumulate in ash-pit.

TRIES SUICIDE IN CELL

Woman Held in Strange Murder Tangle Attempts to Hang Herself by Sheet.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Katherine Malm one of the four persons held in Chicago's strangest murder tangle, attempted to end her life in her cell at the police headquarters early today.

Matrons patrolling the woman's section of the jail, found her hanging by a sheet. While the woman kicked furiously at the matrons when they started to cut the sheet, she was released and revived from partial strangulation.

Mrs. Malm, her husband, Otto, Ethel Beck, and Walter Bockleman are all held in connection with the murder of Edward Lehman, a watchman, who frustrated an attempted robbery of a warehouse by a man and a woman on November 5.

Confessions and denials from both couples have puzzled police. They are still uncertain which pair committed the crime.

HEAVY GALE IN THE WEST

Much Damage Done in San Francisco Bay by Storm During the Night.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—A heavy gale struck the San Francisco bay region during the night with the following results:

The 4,000 ton freighter Robin Gray was blown into the breakwater at the old yacht harbor off the 1915 exposition grounds in San Francisco bay, where it was hanging perilously this morning with its crew of thirty-seven still aboard.

An army tug, the El Agador, was driven into a cement pier and a hole stove in her side which may cause the vessel to sink.

A piledriver was blown adrift, crashing into a pier and doing heavy damage.

Several barges were torn from their moorings; many power and telephone wires were broken and other minor damage done.

Two unidentified men entered the bank of Cuba, Ala., held up C. W. McGowen, assistant cashier, obtained $7,000 and escaped.

ALEXANDRA HAS BIRTHDAY

British Queen Mother, at Seventy-nine, Receives Long Line of Callers.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Queen Mother Alexandra, long the best loved of all British royalty celebrated her seventy-ninth birthday here today.

And endless stream of callers, headed by the Danish minister, tendered official and personal homage to the "sea king"'s daughter from over the sae" as Tennyson wrote many years ago.

From the moment of her landing in England to marry the late King Edward in 1863, the Danish princess won all hearts.

King George will give a private family banquet in honor of his mother tonight.

Flags were flown on government buildings and salutes fired in honor of the anniversary today.

DORIS AND DAVID HAVE A GUEST AT THEIR LUNCHEON.

DAVID and Doris trudged along to the woods. Their lunch basket hung on a stick and each of them carried an end.

When they reached the cool, shady woods, Doris picked out a lovely shady nook beside the little brook and placed the lunch basket on the grass while they looked around.

Soon she gave a loud cry and David ran to her side.

"Do you see that queer-shaped, reddish-brown leaf?" she asked, all excited. "When I touched it I heard

"Don't Stare So—It's Rude."

the funniest little noise. Touch it."

David put up his hand to touch the reddish-brown leaf and the thing stirred. "Now, what in the world do you suppose that is?" Doris whispered.

"This is a poor time to begin whispering," laughed a squeaky voice, and the reddish-brown leaf moved again. Down flopped a dull red wing, then out popped a queer little round head and a very flat, blunt nose. Two bright black eyes blinked at the sunlight, then the funny little mouth stretched in a yawn. "Well, hello there, children," squeaked a tiny voice.

"I say, David, don't stare so—it's really rude."

"Well, of all things!" David exclaimed. "Who are you and how do you know my name?"

"Easily enough," replied the queer little fellow. "I'm Teddy Red Bat. You chase me nearly every evening, yelling at the top of your lungs."

"My goodness!" laughed Doris. "And you're a bat. I never saw a red bat before."

"You mean you've never seen me in daylight before," laughed Teddy Red Bat. "You see, I almost always sleep in the daytime. But I'm awake now so I guess I'll get up."

"But I thought bats couldn't see in the daytime," David laughed, coming close to Teddy Red Bat. "'Blind as a bat' is a saying I've always heard."

"I'm anything but blind," Teddy Red Bat laughed. "But I am hungry, and if you don't mind I'll have a bite with you."

This pleased Doris and she began at once to spread out the lunch and they all sat down to eat.

Teddy Red Bat took hold of the skin on his wing with his mouth and began to pull and stretch it. He went all over it with his tiny tongue to the amusement of the children. "I like to wash before I eat," he laughed. Then with his little claw of a thumb he scratched and combed his hair.

"Now, I'm ready," he laughed and sat down beside Doris and David. "We red bats are just about ready to go South," he added. "I don't like the North in the Winter."

"Oh, I thought the birds were the only meadow folk that went South," Doris cried, handing Teddy Red Bat a piece of cold meat.

"We always go South," replied Teddy Red Bat, shaking his funny little head. "Then we come back every Spring. My!" he cried, smacking his lips, "that tasted fine. I'm on my way now, I'll see you next Spring."

Without another word Teddy Red Bat spread his red wings and flew away. Doris and David watched him sail through the air until he was out of sight.

"He's a clever little fellow," said David. "I'll never chase him again."

"That's a good idea. I won't either," laughed Doris, and gathering up their things the children hurried home.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dr. Braithwaite Wanted to Know All About Leila.

IT was but an instant after I caught Leila in my arms that Alfred and Dr. Braithwaite were at my side, with Dicky close behind them.

"Let me take her!" Alfred said hoarsely, but Dr. Braithwaite interposed a sharp command:

"Don't touch her. Here, Madge, this way!"

He was down on his knees beside me, and had lowered Leila's insensible figure to the floor even as he spoke. An office woman and a nurse appeared as if by magic, and a curt command from the surgeon's lips sent them scurrying to return almost instantly with water and restoratives, which the nurse, under Dr. Braithwaite's direction, applied.

"Let me have the nearest room and a rolling cot at once," the surgeon said to the office woman, and Leila scarcely had opened her eyes before she was tenderly transported to a room on the floor above us. Alfred, Dicky and I stood helplessly by while the surgeon and nurse worked over her, but it was only a few minutes before Leila's weak voice spoke her husband's name, and Dr. Braithwaite beckoned to him peremptorily.

"Sit beside her and hold her hand, but don't let her talk," he said, and with a nod to the nurse to remain within call, he swept Dicky and me out of the room with him.

"That girl is in a bad way," he said when we were again in the reception room. "If she had a more robust physique she could conquer those nerves of hers, but as it is——"

He stopped and eyed me sharply. I wondered if my face had betrayed anything to him.

The Doctor's Questions.

"What do you know about her?" he demanded. "Has she any especial cause for worry? It's all nonsense, you know, to account for this performance by anxiety for her mother-in-law. I can see that she is very much attached to her, but a collapse of this kind would not follow anxiety for her own mother, unless she was in unusually bad shape. Of course, it may be——"

He broke off again, apparently studying the pattern of the rug at his feet. Then he turned to Dicky:

"I wish you'd telephone Harriet that the operation was successful and that everything is going well. Tell her I'll come directly to the apartment when I leave here, which will be in about fifteen minutes."

"Right away," Dicky answered promptly, and his brother-in-law put a possessive hand upon my arm.

"Come over here," he said leading me to a deserted corner of the reception room, where he could not be overheard.

"Now tell me everything you know about your friend, the younger Mrs. Durfee," he commanded. "Remember, everything. I'll not betray your confidence, but I want to talk to her presently, and I'd like to know what ground I'm standing on."

"How do you know that——" I parried, but the quizzical look he gave me cut short the query.

"It is my business to know things and to read faces, my dear," he said quietly. "But let us not waste time."

Madge Tells the Doctor.

There was something so compelling in his manner, and he imbued me with such a sense of the necessity of giving him all my knowledge of Leila, that I gave him not only every scrap of information I possessed, but outlined my fears for her as well. I told him of Bess Dean, what I knew—and what I suspected—and of Leila's shuddering dislike and fear of the girl. I even told him of the whispered confidence my little friend had given me, and her terror of the possibility which normally would have been her dearest joy.

"You only have confirmed my own thought," the famous surgeon said when I had finished, "but you have made it much easier for me to talk with her. When I have finished I want you to remain with her while I have an old-fashioned seance with that nice young idiot, her husband. We'll straighten things out for the little lady, never fear. As for that girl you speak of—Dean you said, didn't you?—she simply has to be shooed off the map. Can you manage that?"

"I don't know," I returned. "I will try my best. But," in sudden panic, "Alfred mustn't dream that either Leila or I mentioned Bess Dean to you."

The quizzical look flashed again into my brother-in-law's eyes.

"I have been in this world a long time, my dear," he said, but I scarcely heeded his words, abashed as I otherwise would have been at them, for glowering at me from the doorway I saw Dicky, who evidently had heard me speak Bess Dean's name.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Christmas Gifts That One Can Make So Easily at Home

By WANDA BARTON

GIFTS to intimate friends should be made by our own hands whenever possible. At least, they should be designed by us. Such gifts have a meaning that no purchased present can have. Even in these modern busy days we can most of us squeeze out a little extra time by giving up a few evenings of gaiety or getting up a little earlier in the morning.

Everybody knits, thanks to wartime activities, and so there are endless possibilities in the fashioning of sweaters, caps, bedroom slippers, scarves, outing vests to which silk backs and sleeves may be added, afghans for beds, couches and baby carriages and shawl capes with hoods for the wee baby. Even Iceland-wool veils are attempted.

Table needs offer endless opportunity for the loveliest of hand-work in table-sets, centers and traycloths. A charming tea-cloth seen recently was of fine, white linen. The applied hem was of orange linen with a wide hemstitching attaching it to the center. Around the edge were teacups and saucers in large size and in Dresden and other famous colorings and patterns. The cups and saucers in each instance were of appliqued linen in the coloring of the familiar china. The decorations were taken from the china designs and the appliqued work was done in black buttonhole stitching which made the cups stand out in striking fashion from the white ground.

Sets of embroidered kitchen towels are a welcome gift to the house-wife who loves dainty little touches for her kitchen but is frequently too busy to embroider towels for herself. Then embroidered hand and bath towels are always acceptable and the work on them is not too fine to do at night.

There is a fad just now for brocaded runners trimmed with gold galoon and lace. One strip runs the length of the table and the other across it in the center. Then the flower bowl or jar rests in the center between meals. This style of runner is new and rather expensive, but very smart. Runners of the same design may be embroidered on natural linen, hemstitched, fringed and knotted at the ends, while the centers may have running designs of single, large flowers or leaves done in self colors or in white. These are also new and attractive.

Clever girls are covering wire or wooden hangers with a little cotton-batting in which sachet is scattered, then with a bit of silk, then shirred velvet ribbon. A big bow finishes the tip and a few little bunches of silk flowers make attractive decorations. The advantage of the velvet covering is that it prevents slipping off the hangers. Girdles and sashes for girl friends are very popular.

Afternoon-tea aprons make dainty gifts. Just now the ones most sought after are made of ribbon. The strips are loosely cat stitched together then they are fringed at the bottom, and a casing holds a ribbon to draw them at the waist line. Pockets are made of tiny ribbon flowers or gold roses with a frill of gold lace surrounding them.

YOUR HEALTH

You Must Guard Health as Duty to Self and State

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

United States Senator from New York,

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

AS I started to write this article I passed through Springfield, Ill. Here is buried Abraham Lincoln. His tomb is a national shrine, visited by thousands who come here to do honor to the martyred President.

I was amazed to read the other day that most of the visitors to Lincoln's tomb are persons of foreign birth.

One of the favorite sports of some thoughtless persons is baiting the foreigner. This is an act unworthy of any American.

It is my experience that the average foreign-born inhabitant is more submissive to our laws and actively devoted to our institutions than are many of our own children.

The reason for this difference is not difficult to find. The foreigner comes to our shores with everything to learn about the new country. All the lessons are new and fascinating. He learns the A B C's of America at a much older and understanding age than our own children do. He can make comparisons with the less favorable Old World conditions. He has fewer distractions.

Of course there is another reason why he is likely to be more amenable to our laws and rules. That is because the European has been brought up where government insists on instant and complete obedience. We would rebel at such autocracy.

It must be said for the foreign born, however, that his obedience to law is of great benefit to him in at least one field. As regards the rules of health, whenever they have been drilled into his mind they are more faithfully followed by the foreign born than by the native American.

Perhaps the statement is not entirely fair. It is hard to say because it is difficult to catch the native American in a moment when he will patiently submit to detailed teaching in health matters. He is so sure he knows about them anyhow that he thinks he does not need the instruction.

You see I am a bit fault-finding to-day. I admit it, but it is because I don't like to find the death rate among certain American groups so much higher than it is among certain foreign groups of our citizens.

Everybody should regard the efforts of health officials just as the little child would—in eagerness of mind to hear something new. Many people are old before their time and feeble beyond their years simply because they have never been told how to live, or because they have willfully disobeyed the rules of right living.

Every American, native or naturalized, should regard his health and the health of his family as his first individual duty and as a duty he owes to the community. Unnecessary illness produces unnecessary economic drain. Good health is a duty.

Answers to Health Questions.

M. F. K. Q.—At times I am troubled with a twitching in my stomach. Is there such a thing as a nervous stomach and do you think I might have this trouble?

2.—Kindly advise me about —

A.—Yes, there is nervousness of the stomach. You had better see a physician for an examination to determine the exact condition present and then suitable treatment can be prescribed.

2.—Kindly send a self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and restate your question.

• • •

M. M. R. Q.—Will you please tell me whether sour milk is good for removing freckles?

A.—No, this is not good for bleaching freckles. Try equal parts of peroxide and lemon juice and avoid being in the sun.

• • •

A CONSTANT READER. Q.—Will you please tell me whether an injury to the nose would cause pain in the eyes and a tired feeling all the time?

A.—Yes, such an injury might cause the symptoms you mention. Have an examination at a hospital clinic or by a nose specialist and follow whatever advice the doctor gives you.

• • •

H. J. T. Q.—Will you kindly advise me regarding a muscle-bound condition? How is this brought about and how can it be prevented?

A.—This condition is caused by using the muscles too much, as in doing one particular thing for a long time. Modify your work in some way in order to overcome the trouble.

• • •

L. P. Q.—Will you kindly tell me whether or not there is any danger in kissing a person on the cheek, who has suffered from tuberculosis?

A.—No, I see no reason why you should worry about this, inasmuch as you do not make a habit of kissing the patient.

• • •

E. G. Q.—Will you kindly tell me whether or not it is advisable to take reducing exercises at night as well as in the morning?

A.—Yes, reducing exercises at night before retiring, will prove helpful.

ODD FACTS

The first sound was transmitted by telephone in Boston June 2, 1875. The first words were transmitted in the same city March 10, 1876 over a line less than 100 feet long, when Thomas A. Watson heard Alexander Graham Bell say: "Mr. Watson, please come here; I want you." At the time Bell was standing in a little attic at 5 Exeter place and talked over a crude telephone of his own invention to his assistant. The first real telephone conversation took place October 9, 1876, over a line two miles long, between Boston and Cambridge, Prof. Bell and his associate doing the talking. The first newspaper report transmitted by telephone was sent from Salem, Mass., to the Boston Globe February 12, 1877.

Probably the smallest fish in the world are to be found in the mountain lake, Buhl, on the island of Luzon, Philippines. This fish, which the natives call the sinarapan, is the most minute vertebrate animal known to science. It weighs only half a grain, and half an inch is its maximum length.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT The Sadness That Lies In Wait

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THERE they sat in their smart little car, the doctor and his wife, on a pleasant Sunday morning, with old Autumn flinging his banners of scarlet and gold even in the city park.

The car was parked in the main drive—the doctor was reading the Sunday newspaper and the doctor's wife was looking over a new book of verse by a brand new poet.

At least that's what they both thought they were doing, but all the time the sun and the leaves and the flash of the water in the fountain sank into their very souls—and they didn't miss a thing that was important in the passing pageantry.

Back and forth they shuttled—the gleaming cars, big and little, smart and a little shabby. Occupied by all sorts of people—cross old ladies who looked as if they wished they were somewhere else and wouldn't like that very well either when they got there; pompous men, with the aspect of the boss; quiet little persons who looked surprised at being in a motor car at all; young girls and young fellows—oh, the world and his wife were out driving on that particular Sunday.

And some were out walking, too.

There was the old couple, for instance—such a fine, sturdy old gentleman, hair white as cotton, beard white as snow, but a little tinge of red in the cheeks—even yet. Such a darling little old lady, frail and delicate—she looked as if the least breeze might blow her away, all in gray and lavender she was, and how she leaned upon her old husband's arm and how tenderly he helped her across the pathway—though his own step was none too sure.

"Oh," breathed the doctor's wife, "it makes me sad to see them—they've lived together so many years and one of them must soon go and leave the other behind—alone.

"I wonder which will go first, and how the other will bear the separation?"

"Sad!" echoed the doctor. "Why I think they're the happiest people in this park to-day. They've lived through their troubles and now they're just sitting in the station waiting for their special train to be announced. They're through with the things of this world. They must have scores of friends waiting for them on the other side of the river. The long, troubled dream of life is almost over for them—they'll soon wake up. I think they are to be envied—the two of them. But, look! Here's a couple that makes me sad."

When Love Is Young

And as he spoke the prettiest girl you ever saw came along laughing and with her was a fine, straight-backed, flat-shouldered, clear-eyed man—she was about twenty and he was about twenty-six or so.

No, she didn't lean on his arm. She isn't the leaning kind or the leaning age; and, besides, that sort of thing isn't done by daylight in the bright sunshine—any more.

But she might as well have leaned upon him, for her whole heart hung upon every word he spoke. And as for him, he didn't know there was a soul on earth but her.

Alone in the world those two, with millions around them, and nobody mattered and nothing mattered—but just those two to themselves.

"No," said the doctor, "not married yet—engaged—and not engaged so very long at that. Poor things! How happy they think they are. And if they only knew what was ahead of them. Sickness and disappointment, maybe poverty, disillusion, perhaps. Tell that girl that she would laugh some day to think how dead in love she was with that man and she'd hate you. Tell the man that the time is going to come when he will smile tolerantly at the memory of the letter he wrote just last night to this very girl—and what would he want to do to you?

Those Deserving Sympathy

"Yes, it's all ahead of them; all the excitement and worry and fever and misery of the thing we call love—and there's the rent to pay and the man will have to get used to paying it.

"And there are other bills to watch and the woman will have to get used to watching them, and she'll discover that he is never quite himself till he's had his cup of coffee in the morning and he'll be amazed to find that she isn't an angel at all, but just a good average woman with a good average disposition—yes, they're the ones I'm sorry for. I'll save my sympathy for them."

And the doctor's wife smiled and then she sighed and then she smiled again, and the doctor sighed and then he smiled and then he sighed again. Was his sigh one of contentment, do you think, or what?

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Chats About a Coat Dress of Black Gabardine.

PAM always keeps a weather eye out for the newest things in the fashion line.

"I've seen one of the best-looking simple things to-day that I've seen in years," she enthused when she came in this morning.

"What was it?" I asked.

"Just a coat dress," she answered.

"You know how I like frocks of simple line," she continued. "Well, this model is simplicity itself."

"Personally, I like a touch of trimming," I remarked.

"Oh, I'm not averse to a small amount of trimming, well placed," Pam answered.

"This dress carried that principle out to perfection," she added. "It was plain and simple, except for a row of fur around the bottom and some very tasteful embroidery above the fur."

"What was the dress material?" I asked.

"Gabardine," she answered.

"What color?" I queried further.

"Black," she answered.

"A simple black dress is always smart," I observed.

"This one held to the long straight line," Pam explained. "It's straightness was accented because of the long tunic that draped from the waistline just to the bottom of the hem."

"How was the rest of it made?" I asked.

Simple Lines Broken by Trimming of Embroidery and Fur.

"The blouse opened straight down the front over a vestee of the same black material," Pam explained.

"A narrow straight collar framed the neck," she added, "and there were deep turned-back cuffs to finish the sleeves."

"It sounds altogether attractive," I approved. "I mean the kind of simple, good-looking dress that one can put on and wear on the street or in the house."

"It would be perfectly satisfactory," Pam said. "Of course for cold Winter days one would need a coat over it, but for warm weather it would be very smart without a coat."

"What kind of hat was worn with it?" I asked.

"A little black velvet turban affair with soft white velvet wrapped about it," Pam answered.

"The wrapped velvet gave the effect of a turned-up brim," she added. It was most becoming, slanting back from the wearer's face as it did."

"Don't you like turned-up brims as a change from those that slope down till they almost cover the eyes?" I asked.

"Yes, I do," Pam agreed.

"I saw an adorable example of the new hat that follows the lines of an old-time turban and looks like one, myself," she told me. "It was made of black suede and studded all over with pearl, ade like a warrior's turban," she added.

"How stunning it must have been!" I exclaimed.

"There's just what it was," Pam assured me.

"I also fell love to have a black dress and a little black suede hat," I added. "Think I shall have to save up my pennies and get them."

"And to that makes you save up your pennies and get them," I agreed, as I removed my shoes and settled down to wear out a few more evening gowns.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a man of twenty-three years of age and full of life. I like to travel around the country. I have a good trade and can make lots of money, but I spend it as fast as I get it. I have the best little girl in the world. She loves me dearly. She wants me to settle down, but I can't keep for a traveling.

COWBOY.

COWBOY: Do not marry, my friend, until you have your fill of travel. But if you really loved this "best little girl in the world" you would feel that you wanted to settle down right now and build a happy home.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have gone with a young man a little older than I for about a year. Lately I have been terribly bored when in his company and he has certain characteristics which irritate me. Should I drop him?

PUZZLED.

PUZZLED: If you do not value the young man's friendship or if he is not very sincere or fair of you to accept his attentions.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

COMMISSION FOR CHARITY

CITY AGAIN FACES PROBLEM OF SOLICITATION.

Good Samaritan Representative Claims That Nothing in the Ordinances of City Put Him Out of It.

The problem of permitting solicitations for charity again troubles the city. It was believed that a scientific administration had finally come thru organization of the community chest. For the past day or two City Attorney Peterson has watched the maneuvers of William Jurgensen, staff captain and post commander of the Good Samaritans association of America, Lincoln post No. 2. Mr. Peterson also has discussed the proposed solicitation for support with Mr. Jurgensen's attorney.

According to the city attorney, Jurgensen contends that he has the same right to solicit funds for his organization as does the Salvation Army and other charitable institutions. He insists that there's nothing in the city ordinances to stop him and, it is understood, he expects to launch his drive immediately. His lawyer informed Mr. Peterson Friday that his client will attempt to mandamus the city in order to test his right to solicit.

"I told his attorney that I desire to know more about the organization and where the money goes," said Mr. Peterson. "I asked him how this man receives his pay and whether or not it is charity on a commission basis. He gave me to understand that Mr. Jurgensen appropriates about 25 per cent of the collections. He asked me if it would make any difference if the representative were placed on a salary basis and I told him I would not cross that bridge until we reach it."

Answers City Attorney.

Mr. Jurgensen answered the city attorney in writing relative to compensation but the answer is a bit general. It states that compensation to officers of the organization is pursuant to law and similar to compensation systems of other charitable institutions.

The city attorney suspects that the general public will want to know whether or not a charitable project is conducted on a commission basis. The city ordinances prohibit the soliciting of alms. Mr. Peterson contends that if a solicitor for charity were to tell the party solicited that he, the solicitor, expects to retain 25 per cent or any other portion of the donation, such statement would influence his success or failure.

Mr. Jurgensen obtained from City Clerk Berg a copy of the ordinances. He declared that the city cannot stop him. Mr. Peterson is not willing to agree. The representative of the Good Samaritans told the city attorney that interference would cause several poor families to go without Thanksgiving dinners.

ON THE SANDS OF SESOSTRIS

FORTY-SIX SHRINE NOVICES CROSS BURNING DESERT.

Ceremonial Brings New Leaders to the Front and Begins New Activities.

Forty-six white robed novices, ready and anxious to endure all kinds of suffering to become members of Sesostris temple of the Mystic Shrine, paraded the street of Lincoln just as dusk came down on Friday evening. They had the colors of their country floating in the breeze. They marched to the wailing music of the Arabian peninsula. They had pens of goats and lines of candidates hanging on to the rope. They had Chief Johnstone in tow, with hundreds of fezzed Shriners walking behind him and mentally vowing that they would see that he received more for his money than any novice who ever came down the sandy trail. There is reason to believe that neither he nor they met with disappointment. The parade followed by a dinner served to nearly 1,500 people. Then came the fireworks at the auditorium.

The regular ceremonial at 3 o'clock in the Scottish Rite temple had the beauty and dignity that mark this section of the proceedings. That changes are taking place in the order, especially the Arab patrol, was shown when Secretary Fred Cornell presented Captain Schwarz with a watch in recognition of his long years of service in drilling the squad which has appeared with so much success in dozens of parades in Lincoln and in other cities. A snappy drill was put on under the command of "Andy" Anderson.

Inevitable Changes.

The changes brought by the passage of time were noted again when the nobles met at the auditorium after dinner and prepared for an evening of jollity. Then it became known that the famous Walt Brothers quartette, the musical mainstay of the patrol for a long series of years, had been unable to weather the removal of Joe Walt to California. This had caused the resignation of E. J. Walt as musical director and made it necessary to reorganize the entire program. In this emergency Prof. H. O Ferguson was called in less than two weeks ago. He was ill for a week and pretty busy th rest of the time, but had a real show in readiness when the curtain went up at 8 o'clock. He wrote it on Sunday, sent away for the costumes, faked some scenery, and accessories, drilled the patrol in a house afire for four days and put away with it. Some of the Shriners who saw the show thru a smoke thickened atmosphere thought that it was a professional performance. All of which shows that the Arab patrol of Sesostris temple can never be put on its back, no matter what calamities visit it.

By Fergy Ferguson.

This Ferguson skit was called "In a Tent." It consisted of three acts. Time: Back when King Tut was doing business. Place: Egypt. Motive: Mainly music and laughter. A good part of the fun came in when Ray Farquhar appeared before the curtain and outlined in good English Soundanese the argument of the act that was to follow. Some of the scenes contained tents and bathing beauties, altho the parts were all taken by men. They brought in Governor Bryan with a washboard, in recognition of his old trouble with laundry bills. When the king demanded a newspaper they fetched in a roll of papyrus, which he unwound at great length, and read some news that was quite fresh and some jokes that were apparently about three thousand years old. This newspaper rapped a few local knuckles and in other ways behaved as a Shrine newspaper usually does.

The cast of this epochmaking addition to the literature of the stage was made up as follows:

Composer and director, H. O. Ferguson.
King Tut, Claude Wilson.
The Queen, Lulu Morse.
Shiek, Lee Ager.
Sneak, Ray Farquhar.
Arab singer, Leslie Strain.
Movie director, A. D. Meyers.
King's jester, Dave Cole.
Singing Mermaid, Earl Middlekauff.
Stage director, George Fawell.
Costumes and props, Leo Soukup.

The Fireworks.

The artistic portion of the program out the way and the bathing beauties having been duly complimented upon their pulchritude and temperament, the congregation settled down to the serious business of the evening. No portion of the exercises was softened or amended to meet the pleasings of the candidates. Chief Johnstone did receive his full portion of attention, just as they said he would, and all of the rest of the novices were awarded the full worth of their money, yea, even unto the uttermost farthing. And then the ceremonial came to a rollicking end.

The Candidates.

The names of the men who became nobles follow:

Harold V. Brown, Lincoln.
George M. Clarke, Lincoln.
Guy K. Cogswell, Lincoln.
Earl L. Coryell, Lincoln.

DOZEN BANKRUPT IN MONTH

November Record Shows Decrease of One—Few Estates of Any Size Involved.

Charles D. Linderman, laborer, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy late Friday, seeking to get out from under $1,650 worth of debts. Helen Kniffen, 1924 J street, was awarded a $1,500 judgment against Linderman in June for injuries sustained in an automobile accident in which he was involved. Linderman gives his assets as $200.

This was the twelfth bankruutcy petition filed at Lincoln during the month. In October there were thirteen. Two petitioners, a mechanic and a farmer, listed debts totaling above $10,000. Farmers again headed the list with five, railroad mechanics being next with three, two of whom used to be farmers. Two laborers, a carpenter and a chair car porter made up the dozen.

Followinfi is the list with debts, assets and exemptions in the order named:

Roy Grover Worden, machnist's helper, $14,252.03, $125 and $625.
Clide Hart, railroad shopman, Plattsmouth, $4,359.40; $345 and $200.
James E. Davis, Plattsmouth, $7,377.62; $250, all exempt.
Sylvester R. Chrisman, mechanic, $514.55 and $100, all exempt.
William W. Wilson, carpenter, $13,750; $12,550 and $60.
George A. Baker, railroad fireman, $5,435.89; $5,049 and $750.
Ros Stolz, laborer, $1,898; $92, all exempt.
Alva W. Clark, Surprise farmer, $4,007.97; $953 and $541.
Harold Alfred Christianseen, laborer, $761.45 and $200, all exempt.
Walter E. Sans, Plattsmouth farmer, $12,197.25; $6,437 and $1,225.
W. T. Lewis, chair car porter, $560 and $200, all exempt.
Charles D. Linderman, laborer, $1,650 and $200, all exempt.

SURPRISED AT INJUNCTION

Commissioner Cowgill Says He Did Not Intend to Disturb Walks and Trees.

Commissioner Cowgill stated Friday evening that the restraining order granted in the district court to prevent him from tearing up sidewalks and removing trees on the north side of M street between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets was not necessary for he had no intention of tearing up the sidewalks or molesting the trees. He said that there would be no more work done on walks this winter and that if the walks were taken up there the trees would not be touched. The walk grade would be changed three or four inches in some places but would be laid to the old walk lines. The commissioner said he was called up at 11 o'clock at night and asked about the walks. He went to the place in question and told the property owners what was in mind and also told them that nothing would be done now about it.

Three state normal schools in Missouri were found by the state board of health to be "unsatisfactory" and legal steps have been ordered by the board to revoke their charters.

DEATH RELICS AT SEWARD

CLOTHES OF LANA EXHIBITED IN VAJGRT TRIAL.

People Come to Court Room With Luncheons and Remain So They Will Not Lose Their Places at Trial.

SEWARD, Neb., Nov. 30.—Grim reminders of the tragedy of October 8, when Anton Lana met a bloody and violent death at the hands of members of the family for whom he worked as a hired hand, were dangled in court Friday, where Adolph Vajgrt, his wife Julia and his fifteen-year-old daughter Alby face a first degree murder charge.

These were the blood-stiffened and dirty clothing that the dead man wore when an undertaker at Milford stripped them from his rigid body as he lay in his morgue late that night. There was a blue shirt, a leather jacket, a pair of overalls and a small sized pair of shoes. The body, the undertaker said, was not clad in any underclothing. The only missing pieces were a sock and a covering of canton flannel that was wound about one foot. These were destroyed.

A valiant effort of the state to secure the admission before the jury of the testimony given by the three Vajgrts before the coroner's jury failed, and the defense scored what its attorneys believed to be a most important point. County Attorney McKillip and his assistant, C. F. Barth, started out under the handicap of having the judge against them at the beginning, and they were unable to convince him of his error after a total of three hours devoted to argument.

Three doctors and an undertaker formed the phalanx of witnesses the state put upon the stand today. These were the foundation stones upon which the prosecution seeks to build and maintain its theory that Lana was shot after he was beaten into unconsciousness.

In ruling that the testimony given by the three Vajgrts at the inquest was not proper to be introduced in their trial for murder, Judge Corcoran said that the many supreme court decisions of other states read and interpreted to him during the argument did not present as much conflict as the attorneys sought to make appear. The old rule and that in force in England today bars such testimony completely, and that the modern departure contended for by Mr. Barth consisted of nothing more than contradictory decisions. Some have varied from the old rule and some have not.

Family Physician Testifies.

Dr. A. A. Conrad of Crete, the Vajgrt family physician, said that he was present at the inquest, and that the county attorney had fully advised the Vajgrts as to their rights, and that there had been no bulldozing. While he was on the witness stand the double-barreled shotgun that dealt the death blow was displayed.

He said that Mrs. Vajgrt had been under his care for a considerable time, and was not a well woman now. He said that on the afternoon of Monday, the day of the tragedy, Vajgrt staggered into his office at Crete, and was so overcome with emotion and grief that he could only cry out "she shoot him, she shoot him." He said he had told no one of the murder because he did not know what to do. The doctor said these Bohemian families still stick to the family doctor, and bring all their griefs to him.

Dr. Conrad said that time and again Vajgrt talked of suicide, and he said he was of that type that would take his own life when faced by worries like this. He also said that he was a man who would be easily scared into making statements if he thought he could protect his family.

The doctor was asked if he had seen "Runty's grave or hole." He said he had not. Runty is a 300-pound constable at Milford who secured the confession from Vajgrt that he killed Lana, and who holds to the theory that a hole that the defense says was used by Lana to keep the skins of the animals he trapped in was a grave started by the Vajgrts in which they first proposed to hide the body.

The witness said that the girl said that the two guns had gone off during their tussle, and that she did not know how this happened. The women had shown fear of Lana and had told him the girl was going in to get her teeth fixed when in fact she went to consult the doctor about her pregnant condition. The witness declined to say how long Lana had been dead when he first saw him, but he would say that he had been dead as long as they said he had been. The girl had said her mother was not present when the killing occurred. He said there were no marks on the girl that he saw, and that the mother seemed to be suffering from mental worries only.

The object of the prosecution in drinking out this testimony was that it might later be used to support their theory that the family set upon Lana in the strawshed, and after they had punished him with a two by four they had shot him. The defense is that the two women called on Lana, who, they suspected was about to run away after he had been charged with forcing the girl for a period of years to submit to his will. He was lying in the strawshed in a blanket, and that when they told him they would not let him go, he pulled the pistol. The girl grabbed this and turned it against him, and, as Judge Thomas says, he committed suicide.

This wound did not cause death. Lana, they say, rose to his feet, and when the blanket fell from him a shotgun was disclosed. He grabbed this at the muzzle and the girl at the butt, and in the tussle the contents were discharged into his chest under the arm, as he held it out in grasping the gun. The sequence of events is not well established, but it is apparent that while the girl was struggling, the mother was using her feeble strength in belaboring him over the head with a heavy plank.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

The Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, D. D., national secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary scholarship fraternity, will be the guest of the University of Nebraska chapter on Tuesday, December 4. Dr. Voorhees is making a tour of inspection of the chapters in the north central states. His visit will coincide almost exactly with the 147th anniversary of the founding of the organization by John Marshall, later chief justice of the supreme court, and others at the College of William and Mary in Virginia, on December 5, 1776 the oldest of the Greek letter societies. The society has now over one hundred chapters in the leading colleges and universities of the United States. Plans for the celebration of its 150th anniversary in 1926 include the erection of a memorial building at William and Mary. Dr. Voorhees will address the Nebraska chapter and its alumni Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in Social Science building, 107.

Bishop E. V. Shayler of Omaha was host to about sixty members of the University Episcopal club at his annual dinner and party at the Grand hotel Friday evening. The dinner was followed by a program of dancing. Speeches were made by Bishop Shayler, Father McMillin Betty Welty, Doris Bowker, Marjorie McGhee, Dorothea Dawson, Miss Driver, Jack Wimble, Max Arkwright, Dorothy Abbot and Professor Gray.

Rev. Alfonso N. Anderson, a graduate of Union college of College View, and a missionary for the Seventh-day Adventist denomination in Tokyo, Japan, who is well acquainted in Lincoln and Omaha, in a letter just received from him says that for more than two months after the devastating shock of September 1, the earth has quaked almost every day.

He has given a thrilling description of the great quake, and the sensations he passed thru as an eye-witness and some of the terrible after-effects. He emphasizes the idol worship of the natives who bow down to the bones of relatives destroyed in the quake or roasted to death in the flames. He says the "people worship those bones, thinking them to be the visible symbols of disembodied spirits."

For two weeks after the quake Mr. Anderson and his family camped on the lawn of the mission compound fearful of having their house shaken down, and even after moving back the shocks have been severe enough to arouse them from their slumber and cause them to make a hasty retreat in their night clothes.

He says the walls of the Adventist publishing house fell toward him just as he left the door of the church building both of which are located in a suburb of Tokyo. The church building in Tokyo was not destroyed tho every other building around fell a prey to the flames.

Prof. Laura B. Pfeiffer of the University of Nebraska will go to Sioux City the first of next week to deliver a lecture on "Franco-German Relations from the Time of Charlemagne." She will speak Tuesday evening before the academy of science and literature. He address will be illustrated with slides.

MERE MENTION

Charles B. Tanner was granted a decree of divorce from Caroline Tanner by District Judge Morning Friday afternoon on the grounds of extreme cruelty and abandonment. Mr. Tanner claims she has been away from home for more than two years and that he has no knowledge of her whereabouts.

Mary Skolil filed suit in district court Friday afternoon for a decree of separate maintenance from Adolph Skolil, charging him with non-support and extreme cruelty and abuse. Mr. Skolil was injured October 25, while working on the stadium and since his injury has been cared for and supported by his wife, altho he refused to support her before he was injured. The couple was married in Crete, September 19, 1905. There are three children, the custody of whom is sought by the mother. On petition of Mrs. Skolil, the court issued a restraining order against the Ocean Accident & Guaranty corporation and the Continental Casualty company, restraining them from paying to the defendant any sums of money due him as compensation. The former company, under its policy, is liable for $15 a week and the latter is liable for $25 per week.

Can federal compensation paid to an ex-service man be taxed by the state? This question has been asked by County Attorney Elmer F. Witte af Pawnee county. The soldier in question has become insane and a guardian has been appointed and his compensation for disability is accumulating. While the state constitution does not specifically exempt such money, the attorney general is inclined to the belief it is exempt.

if he had said at one time that the first time he heard the stories of the defendants was at the inquest.

O. G. Pendell, a Bohemian, was the last witness of the forenoon. He and his wife had gone to the Vajeri farm the night after the murder and had stayed all night with Mrs. Vajeri. Mrs. Vajeri said they had been excited and hadn't told the truth. She said she went to the straw shed with Alby and that Lana was shot in a struggle. She had hit him over the head with a timber after he had been shot.

The fireworks of the morning came when the county attorney asked witness Stolz if Attorney J. J. Thomas had not tried to intimidate him and had not asked him if he was trying to convict Lana. Mr. Thomas objected and the court sustained the objection curtly. He warned the jurors to pay no attention to what they had just heard and warned the county attorney to confine his efforts to a trial of the case.

CITIZENSHIP EMPHASIZED

REV. FRANK SMITH TALKS TO OLDER BOYS SATURDAY.

People Not Free to Do as They Please When It Interferes With Rights of Others, Declares Speaker.

Members of the older boys conference of Nebraska, Saturday morning listened to an address by Dr. Frank G. Smith, pastor of the First Congregational church of Omaha, on "Citizenship." The conference met at the First Christian church.

He defined citizenship as the ability to live with others and to get along with others. He said that this might not be the dictionary definition but it hit the spot. He declared that much of the misery, much of the hardships and much of the unhappiness now in the world are because people have not learned to live together.

He urged that the boys do all in their power to make their communities better and to cultivate the true principles of citizenship. He advised them to plan a program of usefulness and to carry out that plan. He referred to the wonderful possibilities for service that the boys have and the great opportunities for Christian leadership.

Some think that personal liberty consists in doing as they please whether it pleases other members of a community or not. Consideration for the rights of others must be observed. We must learn to live together in good fellowship and harmony and give up some of our rights and privileges if we are to be real good citizens, he averred.

Four sectional conferences were held during the morning. They were presided over by W. W. Shaver, Noah Blanchard, Frank A. Lindhorst and C. E. Fitch. Programs for the ensuing year were discussed.

At noon, the boys and their leaders had their photographs taken in front of the church. A conference dinner was eaten at 12:30 at the Y. M. C. A. At 12:50 the state boys' work committee met. At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the visitors were given an automobile ride about the city. At 3 p. m. it was planned to inspect the state university stadium. It was stated that the names of the new officers would be announced at the Camp Sheldon reunion banquet to be held at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at the red room of the Y. M. S. A. All boys and leaders who have ever attended Camp Sheldon were invited. An evening session of the conference was planned at the First Christian church with a program of speaking and music.

ESTIMATE GIVEN TO CAPITOL COMMISSION

Second Section of Building May Cost More Than First—Total About Seven Million Dollars.

Rough estimates of the cost of the new capitol asked for by the capitol commission and placed before that body by W. L. Younkin, assistant to Architect Goodhue, indicates that the second section of the building will cost more than the first section now under course of construction. There is said to be more stone in the second section altho it contains large legislative and other halls.

Mr. Younkin's estimate is on the basis that prices in the future will be no lower than prices paid for the section now being built. It is roughly estimated that the first section will cost $2,600,000, the second section $3,000,000 and the third section, comprising the tower, will cost $1,500,000, the total final cost of the building being estimated at about $7,000,000. The legislature has appropriated $5,000,000.

Mr. Younkin expects to get the temporary heating plant in operation the middle of next week. Fire has been burning in the temporary plant for a week or more for the purpose of drying out the furnace brick under the boilers. The first work to be undertaken on the interior of the first section is to be the plastering. Metal lath is now being put in position. Oiled canvass in the windows admit light and retain heat from the temporary heating plant.

Copper roofing is going on as rapidly as a force can lay it. Workmen are laying the floor upon the top of the terrace. A granite border will be laid on this floor.

QUICK BANDIT DISPOSAL

Highwaymen Who Robbed Street Car Conductor in Prison Within Week of Act.

Quick disposal was made of the bandits who held up and robbed Conductor George Gramley on a University Place car last Sunday night. They were sentenced on Wednesday to serve ten years each at hard labor in state's prison and on Saturday morning, four of them were delivered to Warden Fenton. Crowded conditions at the penitentiary make it necessary for Sheriff Hensel to keep the fifth member of the hold-up band a whil elonger.

So it happened that when the officers called for the men, the mother of Chester Morgan was visiting him. She had come to Lincoln for that purpose and for this occasion, he was left behind. The four now within state prison walls: Floyd Barnhill, R. C. Carroll, McKinley Dennis and Ward Hatcher.

After seeing a picture of Hatcher in the paper, Commissioner Cowgill looked up the name in his own little note book. He recalled that a short time ago he had arrested this same Hatcher at Twenty-second and Sewell streets while the young man was in the act of driving his team and wagon over the curb.

"He was working for a contractor in charge of excavation work for a new church. He was very frank with me," said the commissioner.

IS A SOLID PROGRESSIVE

LAFOLLETTE MOST DISTINCTIVE OF COLLEAGUES.

Admitted That More Than Any Other Man He May Influence American Politics in the Next Few Years.

By Lawrence Martin

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Of all the various brands, shades and markings of progressivism, that of Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin is the most distinctive and untinged by any tintings or blendings from other political color schemes. In fact, so solid and brilliant is the color of LaFollette's progressivism that many people call him a "red."

While the political managers profess to regard LaFollette with contempt as a factor in the 1924 republican presidential scramble or in the subsequent presidential election, even the most superficial examination of the situation shows convincingly that here is the one man who more than any other can influence the trend of American politics in the next few years. Whether he does it or not depends almost entirely upon LaFollette.

When he organized the "progressive group" in congress, and a corresponding group to work in the country at large in connection with the congressional unit, LaFollette and all his aids disclaimed with emphasis any purpose of starting a third party movement or of engaging in politics. Their purposes they declared, were limited to economics and legislation.

Holds Balance of Power.

But the congressional elections of 1922 gave that progressive group the balance of power in the sixty-eighth congress, and at once made it a political nucleus which from that time on it was evident would have to be considered in 1924.

LaFollette, as the titular head of the progressive organization, its chief strategist and legislative director, therefore became a presidential possibility. When he addressed the 1922 convention of the American Federation of Labor in Cincinnati, a presidential boom for him was launched, and whether he is an avowed candidate or not, a considerable block of delegates to the next republican national convention will be for LaFollette as first choice.

How far LaFollette goes in the presidential race depends, observers believe, on the quality of leadership he displays this winter in making effective the control of congress which wise management will give him. This will not be an easy task, for both republicans and democrats of the old traditional party type are opposed to men like LaFollette. Disciples of things-as-they-always-have-been object to evolution—they always call it revolution.

LaFollette has been and will continue to be denounced as an apostle of radicalism: he has even been called an agent of Lenin and Trotsky and the communistic internationale.

He is one of the no-quarter type of fighters. He loses more battles than he wins because he will not negotiate when negotiation means partial surrender on things he has been fighting for. LaFollette usually is beaten in congress because in the recent past he has pretty largely waged a lone fight, with little or no assistance from other professed progressives. He just keeps on fighting.

He is one of the most picturesque figures in public life. Like so many of the world's fighting men, he has a short, compact figure, built for hard campaigning. His bushy pompadour and the square-jawed, furrowed face which it surmounts have become familiar the country over.

Personally, LaFollette is one of the most lovable men in congress. He has hosts of personal friends, and some very bitter personal enemies, for his tongue is acid sharp and no respecter of persons if LaFollette finds out a man has done him a wrong or has played an underhanded game.

He is distinguished by an avidity for work which would wear out less hardily constituted men in short order. A speech by LaFollette usually is spread over several days for when he begins talking about a subject he has veritable mountains of data on it, and it takes it as thoroughly as he insists any subject worth talking about ought to be gone into.

The farmers of his northwest country and men of labor everywhere are strong for LaFollette.

WILLIAM WILHELMY DEAD

Pioneer of Nebraska City Passes Away Wednesday After a Lingering Illness.

NEBRASKA CITY, Dec. 1.—William Wilhelmy, who was a resident of this city for fifty-four years, died at his home Wednesday night after a lingering illness. He was eighty-eight years old.

The deceased was born near Bremen, Germany, July 26, 1835, and when but four years old came to America with his parents. They lived in Ohio until 1869, when they moved to Nebraska City. He was married to Miss Margaret Koop in 1864.

He engaged in the agricultural implement business here soon after he arrived from the east, later becoming a traveling salesman for an implement house. After eleven years in their employ, he became associated in the hardware business here, retiring a number of years ago.

William Wilhelmy was the father of Ed Wilhelmy, 1441 B street, Lincoln. He had visited in Lincoln a number of times and had many friends and acquaintances here.

OPEN MIND ON CRISIS

EUROPEAN TROUBLES BEFORE U. S. GOVERNMENT.

Washington Considering Commission Plan to Examine Germany's Capacity to Pay and Plight of Hungry Germans.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The United States government has been officially advised by Col James A. Logan jr., unofficial American representative on the reparations commission, that the allies desire American participation in an investigation of Germany's financial condition, it was learned authoritatively at the state department today.

The state department has replied to this communication from Logan, it was admitted, but officials refused absolutely to divulge the contents o fthe exchange of communications.

The assumption is, however, that the reply to Logan outlined the American attitude toward the new development in the reparations situation.

Officials declared that the cable from Logan was received before the decision of the reparations commission to appoint two committees to inquire into Germany's financial condition was announced in Paris yesterday.

This was regarded as significant, indicating that the allies inquired thru Logan of the attitude of the United States and received an informal response before announcing the decision.

The state department today described the present plan as being still entirely in a "nebulous state" and for this reason refused to comment to any extent on the question.

It was made plain, however, that this government first must receive a definite invitation from the allies before committing itself one way or the other on the question of American participation.

So far the state department is without exact information on the details of the scope of the proposed inquiry.

While two developments served to bring the situation abroad to the attention of the United States, Secretary of State Hughes, speaking last night in Philadelphia at the celebration of the centenary of the Monroe dictrine, set forth the official American attitude of the European problem.

The government here today was considering these two questions:

1—The decision of the reparations commission to form a committee of experts to judge Germany's capacity to pay and for the allies to consult with Washington concerning American participation.

2—The plight of Germany in her inability adequately to feed the population. The appeal to the United States for a huge food credit which Germany is planning, is expected to be made soon.

The American government is keeping an "open mind" on the step taken by the reparations commission, pending arrival here of the official proposal.

Hughes made the following points on the European situation in his speech at Philadelphia.

"We contributed our arms in the interest of liberty and to destroy the menace of an autocratic power, but not to secure the economic prostration of a vanquished people.

"We have the deepest sympathy with the people of France; we warmly cherish their ancient friendship. We desire to see France prosperous and secure, with her wounds healed and her just demands satisfied.

"We desire to see a united and prosperous Germany, with a will to peace, making amends to the full extent of her power and obtaining the appropriate rewards of her labor and skill.

"We wish to see an end to waste of military efforts and the easing of the burden of unproductive expenditures. We wish to see the fires of hate quenched."

ONE WOMAN MEMBER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Mae E. Nolan, republican, California, will be the lone woman member of the new house of representatives. Her two woman associate members in the last congress, Miss Alice Robertson, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, were defeated. Succeeding her husband, John I. Nolan, who died while serving his fifth term as representative of the Fifth district of California, Mrs. Nolan pledged herself to work for the enactment of legislation beneficial to workers, just as her husband had done. Mrs. Nolan, who is often accompanied on the floor by her little daughter Corlis, will probably again be assigned to the labor committee of the house, which her husband served as chairman for nearly four years.

"Contributory Negligence."

Everybody's Magazine: "That cut was caused by her ring, your Honor. She struck me in the face with her clenched fist," complained the young husband.

"Where did she get the ring?" questioned the magistrate.

"I gave it to her. It was our engagement ring."

"The prisoner is discharged. That is clearly a case of contributory negligence."

By Charles Massey.

The championship of the state college conference must be decided by a post season football game between Chadron Normal and Hastings college, according to Dean W. E. Tilberg of Midland college, chairman of the conference committee. Just when the game will be played and where it is to be staged has not yet been determined.

Last year, a ruling was made in the college circle to award championships only by actual performance records. According to the rules the two undefeated teams in the conference will be forced to settle the supremacy debate.

Hastings put a strong argument in its favor with the recent victory over Nebraska Wesleyan. Stephens, heady little quarterback, led such a flashy offensive that the Coyotes were forced to be content with the short end of a 9 to 7 count. It was also the little field general's toe which booted the field goal to give his team the winning margin.

Wesleyan is Defeated.

Wesleyan was considered one of the strongest contenders for the title. However, Holste's style of play combined with Stephens' leadership were just sufficient to overshadow the over-confident Methodists. The defeat places the Yellow and Brown eleven fourth in the list of standings.

Chadron normal recently made a powerful assertion of strength, by taking a 3 to 0 victory from Grand Island college conquerors of Midland's last year's championship team. Fearing that an insufficient number of games would disqualify them from claiming the title, Coach West's proteges bid for a game with any conference opponent. Peru normal accepted and journeyed to the Eagle camp to battle for a 10 to 10 tie.

The tie did not affect the standings and left the western Normalites in a contending class. The coming battle between the two schools will definitely settle the question, one getting the title and the other being classed as the runner-up.

Midland in Most Games.

Midland college, by playing more conference games than any other team, had had a successful season. Only one reverse has been encountered, a defeat from the Islanders. The repeated victories of Coach Speer's eleven has enabled the Lutherans to place fourth in the conference.

Peru Normal placed fifth in the list, playing seven games to win four and tie two. Midland handed out the only defeat which the Bobcats were forced to take this year. Coach Graf's proteges made a very creditable showing, mostly thru the efforts of Bitzenbach, full back. This smashing, hard hitting back was the main cog in the Peru machine.

Grand Island college placed sixth with four wins and three losses. The Zebras were good enough to turn back Coach Speer's Midland eleven, the team which last year took the state conference title. The same Zebras lost to the Eagles 3 to 0.

Doane Makes Good Start.

Doane college started out the season with a victory but was unable to keep pace. With the schedule completed, the Congregationalists have won three and lost four. Coach Nossek perfected a team which worked well on occasion. Against the Bobcats, the Tigers battled consistently but Midland walked away with a victory. A fortunate break accounted for the single Doane score.

Wayne and the Kearney tied for the eighth and ninth places by winning two games and losing four. The Antelopes have the advantage of one tie over the Wayne aggregation. Coach Fulmer's proteges made the better showing of the two by scoring a total of 117 points and allowing but 49 while Coach Dale's eleven scored but 75 and were scored on for 110 points.

Nebraska Central Narrowly missed a berth in the last tier of places by emerging with a single victory during the eight games played. In an early season game, Cotner college fell before the Quakers. Coach Thornley has been handicapped at the Central City school by lack of material and injuries.

Two Share the Cellar.

York college and the Cotner Bulldogs are sharing the cellar, with Cotner taking a greater portion of the lower rack. York has played seven games without a single victory, has been scored on for 367 points and has made but fourteen points. These fourteen points were scored off of one of the weakest teams in the conference, Nebraska Central.

Cotner College did not feel the thrill that follows the making of a touchdown for not once during the season did the Blue and White aggregation lug the ball behind the last line stripe of their opponents. Two drop kicks for field goals constitute the only scoring the Christians have done. Opposing teams have made 251 points. Nebraska Central succeeded in trouncing the Bethany eleven.

The conference race as a whole has been hovering about Hastings, Nebraska Wesleyan, Chadron Normal, Peru Normal, Grand Island and Midland. Grand Island fell out before Chadron, Peru fell to Midland, Midland lost to Grand Island and Nebraska Wesleyan was defeated by Hastings. After the leaders in the conference were thru playing each other, Chadron Normal and Hastings remained undefeated.

From performance records, it would appear that Hastings college has the strongest team in the conference. Chadron sprang a surprise by defeating the Zebras and may be able to win the championship during the post season game by trouncing the Presbyterians.

No. 22—Tim's Tiny Bunt and the Pennant.

Who was Tim Murnane? He was once a great first baseman. Those who recall him say that he was as swift as an arrow both in his infielding and in his base running. But his work at the bat was a sad and sorry sight.

One day, by accident, his bat gave the ball a weak tap half-hearted, unplanned. It died in front of the pitcher's box, before the pitcher had waked up to the significance of the weak little thing. And when he did wake up, Tim was on first.

This set Tim Murnane to thinking. He whittled one side of his bat flat—against regulations—and practiced until he could "lay them down" in whatever direction he wanted. Thus the bunt was born.

It must be admitted the baseball records disagree, however, for there are some who believe that Dicky Pearce invented the bunt way back in 1866.

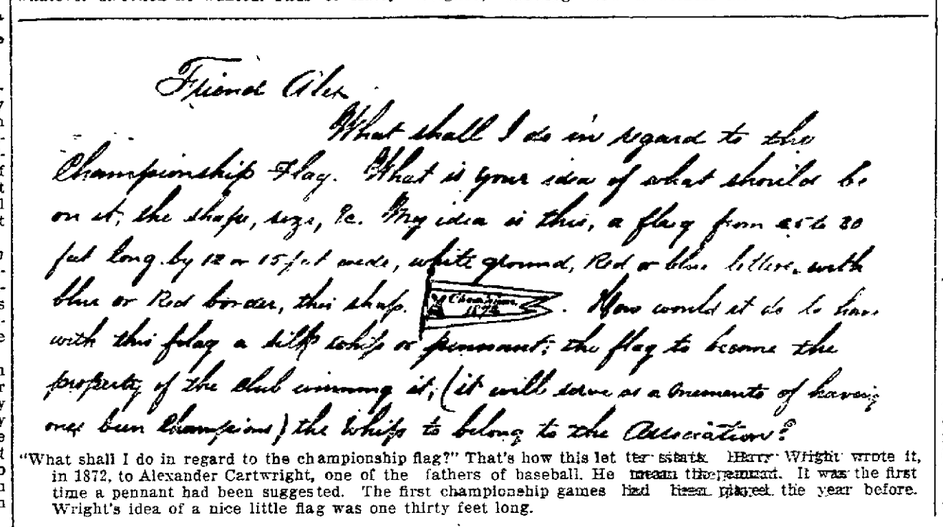
Murnane later became a writer of authority on baseball matters, and was baseball editor of the Boston Globe. He was one of the historic group that took baseball to England in 1874.

After Murnane, the bunt fell into disuse, and, as recent as 1889, it was referred to by the sport writers as among the freak stunts of batting. In 1894 the Baltimore Orioles showed how the bunt could help win a pennant.

We have unearthed an old letter of Harry Wright's, showing how they managed pennants in 1872. Championship games began in 1871, in the National association, when the Athletics were in the lead, and Boston won so continuously thereafter that victory took the wind out of the sails of the game, and sportsmen stayed away, fearing to face a foregone conclusion. The National league started off with Chicago the winner, followed again by Boston and then Providence and the Anson's Chicago team, with its "inside game." The series that now holds the fans has been holding them for twenty years, for the Boston Red Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates began in 1903 the brilliant history of world championships and in those years the public has paid over seven millions of dollars to witness the National and American leagues struggle. There was nothing more healthy than this rivalry.

This is Time Murnane. He couldn't bat and because of that one day he found himself safe at first. Then he started to figure out how it happened. That's the way a lot of great discoveries are made, anyway.

Tomorrow: The Man Who Saved the Game.



Friend Alex

What shall I do in regard to the Championship Flag. What is your idea of what should be on it, the shape, size, &c. My idea is this, a flag from 25 to 30 feet long by 12 or 15 feet wide, white ground, Red or blue letters with blue or Red border, this shape. [pennant] Now would it do to have with this flag a silk copy or pennant; the flag to become the property of the club winning it; (it will serve as a memento of having once been champions) the whips to belong to the Association?

"What shall I do in regard to the championship flag?" That's how this let ter starts. Harry Wright wrote it, in 1872, to Alexander Cartwright, one of the fathers of baseball. He mean the pennant. It was the first time a pennant had been suggested. The first championship games had been played the year before. Wright's idea of a nice little flag was one thirty feet long.

NORTH LOUP CLOSES SUCCESSFUL SEASON

NORTH LOUP, Neb., Dec. 1.—North Loup high school came thru the season undefeated by winning from Comstock, 55 to 0, in the last game. North Loup has piled up 472 points while no team has been able to score on it.

Elks in Bowling Tournament Here

The newly formed Elks bowling association will hold its first state tournament here December 8 to 15, at the Lincoln alleys. Eight teams will be here from Omaha, one from Columbus and others from Hastings, Grand Island and Beatrice.

CLAY CENTER-FAIRFIELD TIE.

CLAY CENTER, Neb., Dec. 1.—Clay Center and Fairfield high school football teams played a 13-13 tie here Thursday. The game was for the county championship and another may be played.

The Last of the Wascoes.

Portland Oregonian: The last member of the Wasco tribe of Indians, reported to have passed the other day to the happy hunting grounds of her forefathers, may have been a less picturesque figure than the last of the Mohicans, embalmed in Fenimore Cooper's popular tale, but she is a local reminder of the rapid disappearance of pure tribal strains from the Oregon country. In 1805 the Wascoes, then a numerous and relatively advanced group of aborigines, were friendly to Lewis and Clarke, were proud of their lineage, had been little diluted by intermarriage with neighbors and had a language indicating a culture superior to that of a good many of the tribes of the northwest. In a little more than a century they have absolutely vanished as a tribe. Their fate has been that of the Molallas, the Multnomahs, the Tillamooks, the Callypooyas and others, once numerous and powerful, who have ceased to exist as nationalities and whose sadly attenuated blood flows sluggishly in the veins of a congeries of tribes.

The minor form of miscegenation involved in tribal amalgamation resulting from various causes did not, it seems, strengthen the race. Those Indians generally fared better who measurably preserved the purity of their strains, as did the Kootenais, who long formed a curious ethnical oasis in the northern Rockies, the Blackfeet and some of the Sioux. Both genetically and materially they prospered best who were held fast by the sheet anchors of tribal consciousness. Amalgamation was generally the forerunner of degeneration, tho perhaps not the only cause. But sentimental concern over the vanishing of the thorobred red man will be tempered by realization that in all probability nothing could have been done to postpone his doom.

MELANCHOLY DAYS ARE NOW UPON US

Words, Not Deeds, Offered as Football Season Fades and Sport Lover Looks About for What's Next.

BY FRANK GETTY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Those melancholy days are upon us when from the realms of sport we get—words, not deeds.

As football fades from the picture, having achieved a success that practically obliterated from these pages the other branches of athletic activity, the insatiable sports lover looks around to see what's next.

Regretfully it must be recorded that in practically every line of endeavor there is a period of pernicious inactivity.

About the leading event under way appears to be a free-for-all for press agents. From these we glean our week-end sports gossip, somewhat as follows:

BOXING.

Senor Luis Firpo, in far off Buenos Aires, where he has blossomed as a coal and automobile merchant, reiterated today in a cable to the United Press he really has signed for a bout with Harry Wills on May 5. Firpo claims to have a contract with Tex Rickard in writing and to be forwarding same today. Here in New York the black panther and his manager, Paddy Mullins, profess to know nothing of it. Mullins, who a short time ago was shouting about wanting to match Harry Wills with any one, now doesn't want to meet Firpo if he can help it, hoping Dempsey will weaken and give Wills a chance at the title.

RACING.

Pierre Wertheimer, owner of the crack French three-year-old Epinard, sails today on the Paris for America to try to arrange a series of four races for his horse. Despite the failure of Papyrus, the English derby winner, to acclimate, Wertheimer is willing to take a chance on finding American opponents to meet Epinard on successive Saturdays at distances ranging from six furlongs up to a mile and a half.

BASEBALL.

The wood is crackling briskly in the winter stove league, amid talk of trades that will deprive St. Louis of its ablest performers in both leagues. Seven American league clubs still are offering the local town halls for Urban Shocker, while as many National magnates are pawning the family "jools" in a determined attempt to land Rogers Hornsby when the league meetings are held at Chicago this month. Thus far neither of the St. Louis stars knows just what is in store for him.

TRACK AND FIELD.

Injuries suffered by Loren Murchison in an auto accident in Philadelphia Monday may prove a serious blow to America's Olympic hopes. Outside of having severely strained his back and dislocated his spine, however, "Murch" is all right and says he will foreswear running on the boards this winter in order to be in shape for spring. The A. A. U. spring champion and his physicians have high hopes he will be able to run his best by the time the Olympic team is picked for the Paris games.

Bowling

Merry-Go-Round Finished.

Ben Keck and Scott Dye with a 1,281 total won the $120 prize offered in the merry-go-round tournament at the Lincoln alleys. Other prize winners were San Amspoker-Frank Spangler; B. Amspoker-Bill McCabe; Warren Duncan-Phil Assenmacher.

Gibbon Loses Only One Football Game

GIBBON, Neb., Nov. 30.—Gibbon high school football team closed its most successful season of recent years Thanksgiving with a 19 to 12 victory over Ravenna. With the exception of the opening game with Kearney every game has resulted in a win for the locals. Wood River, Loup City, Central City and the Kearney Normal seconds all fell before Coach Claar's proteges. Nine of the eleven players are seniors. Vohland was the chief point tabulator for the Gibbon team.

MUNSON FORDS LOSE GAME.

PALMYRA, Neb., Nov. 30.—The Munson Fords basketball team of Lincoln lost 34 to 22 here Friday night when the Palmyra town team flashed a superior attack during the first half. During the last half of the game, the visitors outplayed the locals.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC BOARD TO MEET TUESDAY

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Nov. 30.—The Nebraska state high school athletic board will meet here Tuesday to decide upon the winner of the interscholastic football championship. Plans had been laid previously to hold the meeting on Monday. Mr. Brooks, secretary of the board is in Chicago attending the meeting there of athletic authorities. He will go directly from there to the meeting at Grand Island. The board has no little task on its hands in trying to decide a championship, as the strongest teams in the state recently took turns at eliminating each other from the race.

GAIL CURTIN HURT AT NORTH PLATTE

Lincoln High School Football Squad Returns From Thanksgiving Day Battle in West.

Gail Curtin, forward passing ace of the Lincoln high school football team, returned from the Thanksgiving day battle with North Platte on the Lincoln county gridiron all the worse for the tussle. In fact, when the train brought the squad into Lincoln Friday at 3:50 p. m., Curtin hobbled along on a pair of crutches.

Curtin, besides being generally bruised and battered, has a badly twisted ankle. On one play he was tackled and caught under the play. His ankle was given a bad wrench which was made more severe when the other players piled up on top of him. He was forced out of the game.

The rest of the squad made the trip in good condition with the exception of the usual stiffness and bruises.

Captain Jug Brown, McIntyre, Cook, Durisch, Whittington, Warde, Curtin, Lewis, Wagner and Elliott donned Lincoln high school moleskins for the last time when they lined up against the western Nebraska eleven.

Nebraska Football Record

Thru an error, the score of the Nebraska-Notre Dame football game was misquoted in the Friday evening Journal. Following is the list of results compiled by the teams which are tied for premier honors in the Missouri Valley conference championship dispute.

Wills to Coach the Chadron Normalites

FREMONT, Neb., Nov. 30.—Coach Ernest G. Wills of Fremont high school has accepted an offer to succeed Coach R. E. West at Chadron Normal and his resignation at the local school takes effect December 1. He will leave Fremont as soon as arrangements are made to name his successor.

Coach Wills formerly played on the Iowa State eleven. He coached a normal school in Arizona before coming to Fremont this fall. During his brief stay here, Wills has developed a high school team that lost but one game during the season and finished with the best record made by the local high eleven since football was revived in Fremont four years ago.

Blair Ends Grid Season With Win

BLAIR, Neb., Nov. 30.—The Blair high school football team closed its season here Thanksgiving by taking a 19 ot 0 victory over the Tekamah eleven. The victory marks the end of one of the most successful seasons experienced by the local gridders. Coach R. E. Stephens' team met but one reverse, the first game of the schedule in which Tekamah scored an 18 to 0 win. Victories over Walthill, Bancroft, Oakland, Lyons, Pender, Hooper and Rosalie were made in addition to the turkey day success. A total score of 152 points have been made by the locals while opponents have made but 49 points.

Fordham-Georgetown to Play.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The last lingering light of a football season that flamed gloriously in these parts will be snuffed out at the Polo grounds this afternoon after Fordham and Georgetown settle their annual dispute. Georgetown has been defeated six times this season, yet is a strong favorite over the Bronx eleven.

Griffith to Again Serve the Big Ten

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(United Press.)—Major John L. Griffith will serve the Big Ten conference of the middle west as athletic commissioner another two years, it was announced here today.

Griffith was reappointed by coaches and faculty representatives at a meeting here to frame schedules for the next year.

Announcement that the annual Drake relays will be held at Des Moines on April 25 and 26 was made by Tug Wilson, athletic director at Drake.

T. E. Jones, Wisconsin, was elected chairman of athletic directors, and A. S. Stagg, Chicago, was elected secretary.

Walter Mohler, president of the Mahler Manufacturing company, presented his resignation as a member of the board of directors.

THREE MISS OUT ON ONE GAME IN QUIZ

No Perfect Papers in Journal's Examination in Which Ten Thanksgiving Dinners to Be Picked.

Quite a number of football pupils are down in their work as shown by the last examination given by the Journal in which ten Thanksgiving games were picked out and the winners were to be chosen. Raymie Hulan, 2310 South Sixteenth street, was close. He, or possibly she, had Kansas playing Oklahoma which cut his, or possibly her grade down.

Because of the dead heat which Kansas and Missouri ran this game was thrown out and no credit taken from a paper regardless of how the pupils answered that question. There were two others who missed but one game and John (Choppy) Rhodes, Cornhusker end, was one of them.

Those who missed but one game, barring the Missouri-Kansas game were: Raymond Eger, Orchard, Neb.; Rhodes and Hulan. The only mistake Rhodes made was in picking West Virgina to beat Washington & Jefferson. Those who missed two games:

Dr. Robert Slepicka	Melvin Varcoe
Harvey Carey	Clarence Lindahl
Alex Sterkel	Ralph Beavers
William M. Jones	Myrl E. Stahl
M. F. Walker	Walter Binderup
G. W. Baldwin	Pete Johnson

Those Who Missed Three.

Bert L. Overcase	Byron L. McMahez
D. C. Weber	Leroy E. Hovis
B. B. Harris	Dr. W. L. Hull
Frank Larabee	Willis Hecht
J. W. Boyd	Mrs. Frank Anderson
Ernest Morris
Cecil Bassett	David Innis
Ernest Bloomgren	Howard Trisble
Laurence Braymen	Richard Backstrom
John H. Porter	Charles Anderson
Charles E. Dowling	Bruce C. Gillan
Henry S. Schmidt

Those Who Missed Four.

Ray Lemon	Blaine M. Allen
Bill Hussey	Vaul Risser
Ed Helmstadter	Verne Mace
Carroll Carlson	Del Cheuvront
Roy C. Curtis	C. E. Simpson
Arthur M. Davis	Robert Connelly
Ivan Jay	Paul Haynie
E. T. Ullstrom	R. W. Lapp
Ambrose E. Alexander	Charles Shaw
Alfred L. Finn	Rollin M. Hayslip
Harold Dean	Leo McMahon
C. M. Hecht	Francis Locke
	E. L. Farmer

Those Who Missed Five.

G. B. Harlan	E. R. Garvin
A. P. Burke	A. H. Miller
Margaret Hammer	W. L. McCandless
Bill Lawlor	Monte L. Munn
R. E. Collman	W. H. Sherburne
Grant Wernimont	David E. Wing

Harry Reed is next to ineligible on account of his grades. He missed six. Milton Eberspacher went him one better when he picked but three winners out of the ten.

However, it was like H. C. Witwer's definition of life, all fun, anyway. Alex Strekel and Alfred Finn, winners of the last contest, tried it again, Sterkel missing two and Finn four.

Charles Shaw offered to send along a smoke if he missed six. Instead he named six winners.

If the three who missed but one game will send in their pictures they will be published.

FIGHTS AND FIGHTERS.

Holyoke, Mass.—Tony Thomas, New England bantamweight champion, won a decision from Danny Edwards, Pacific coast boxer, in ten rounds.

New York—Denying he has received word from Luis Angel Firpo that the latter has signed with him to meet Harry Wills next May, Tex Rickard nevertheless offered to "bet a hat" that Firpo meets the black panther before again tackling Dempsey.

New York—Discussion continues over the decision that awarded Frankie Genaro the palm in his Thanksgiving night bout with Carl Tremaine. It was announced that the judges disagreed and that the referee cast a deciding ballot in the flyweight champion's favor. Seven sports writers picked Tremaine, four Genaro; while two gave a draw.

Fon Du Lac, Wis.—Roy Conley, "fightin' parson" stopped Jack Monahan in the fifth round of a scheduled ten round fight here last night.

Boone, Iowa—Len Schwabel, St. Paul featherweight, may be matched to meet Harold Plude of Des Moines or Frankie Smith, in an eight round bout at a show to be held here next Tuesday night, according to promoters.

Philadelphia — Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, will meet Midget Smith, New York in a ten round bout to a decision here Tuesday night. The fight will not be a championship affair, as Smith will scale about 118. Pennsylvania's new boxing law legalizing decisions, went into effect today.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Ted Moore, English middleweight, decisively defeated Johnny Karr, Cleveland, twelve; Frankie Kearns, Utica middleweight, won over Joe Edwards, Cleveland, eight.

Omaha—Sailor Freidman, Chicago will meet Morrie Schlaifer, Omaha welterweight, here in a ten round bout on December 13.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Bobby Sowash, Rock Island, won a newspaper decision over Frankie Lecari, Rockford, Ill., here last night. Dick Allison, Kewanee, Ill., outclassed Sonny Lloyd, Cedar Rapids, in eight rounds.

Tecumseh Closes a Successful Season

TECUMSEH, Neb., Nov. 30.—The Tecumseh high school football team closed a successful season at Friend Thursday with a 9 to 0 victory over the Friend eleven. The local aggregation met with but two reverses during the playing of the schedule, the games against Havelock and Wilber. Beatrice, Auburn, Fairbury, university high school of agriculture, University Place, Wymore and Friend compiled a total score of six points while Tecumseh took a victory from each one by totaling a 111 point score.

Meadow Grove Teams Victors.

MEADOW GROVE, Neb., Dec. 1.—Meadow Grove high school basketball teams won from Battle Creek Wednesday, the girls by a score of 29 to 24, and the boys, 16 to 8.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Grain prices closed sharply higher on the Chicago board of trade today.

Wheat led other grains in a sharp upturn during today's short session. Buying which had its inception at the opening, induced by light deliveries on December contracts, higher cables and unfavorable weather in the northwest, continued up to the close.

Higher cash markets, better feeding demand and failure to deliver any stocks on December contracts, as well as higher wheat, gave corn a higher close.

A check in lagged thru most of the session, it gained some ground on the strength of other grains.

Provisions rallied late with grains, on higher hogs and better cables.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Grains, with the exception of oats, opened sharply higher on the Chicago board of trade today. Oats opened unchanged with a weak undertone.

Sharply higher cables, unfavorable weather in the northwest, with prospects of the cold wave sweeping down thru the middle west, brought buyers into the wheat market and prices advanced sharply. Receipts, 10 cars. Country reported good buying, some of it due to the higher wheat opening and the remainder to unfavorable weather over the southwest with a forecast for further precipitation over the week-end. Receipts, 209 cars.

Heavy deliveries on December contracts caused a weakened oats market. Deliveries totaled 835,000 bushels, which was not expected by traders. Receipts, 70 cars.

Provisions opened dull and lower, despite higher hogs and better cables.

Grain Market Opinions.

Hulburd, Warren & Chandler: May corn does not look so high at present prices.

Bartlett-Frazier: Lower prices are suggested.

Stein-Alstrin: Anything like a turn for the better in the news, wheat could score a fair rally. Corn may drift lower.

Harris, Winthrop & Co.: Bearish news has little effect on values.

Clement, Curtis & Co.: We anticipate a sustained advance in prices.

Thomson-McKinnon: We expect no permanent strength in wheat until the problem of disposing of excessive supplies has been solved. Available stocks of corn are exceedingly small.

J. M. Simpson: Wheat news all bearish, but the market still holds, so favor purchases on the setbacks for fair trading profits. I look for investment buying of May corn on the breaks. The only thing to start liquidation as I see it is a rapid accumulation of stocks at terminal markets. Favor purchases of May corn and oats.—Lamson.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—For the present wheat is a hedger's market and has no particular trend. The discount of December under May yesterday in all markets was unusual. It is estimated producers are long anywhere from 12,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels May wheat at Winnipeg. Few to all professionals feel so bearish on wheat and corn they don't care to express themselves. Consignment notices on corn have fallen off materially owing to the unfavorable weather and the decline in prices.

Export sales of around 1,250,000 bushels of wheat were made at the seaboard Thursday and Friday. No sales of corn.—Lamson.

Coming Events in Stocks.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—On recessions, stocks are drifting into strong hands. Inasmuch as the trend continues upward, best speculative strategy suggests the purchase of all issues on a downward reaction. A decided firming up in the rail list, with a renewal of the upward move, is likely by next Wednesday.—Lamson.

Herald-Examiner Report.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Considering the character of the market wheat gave an excellent account of itself yesterday.—Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Sentiment in all grains friendly toward the buying side on the breaks.—Lamson.

MEN AND THINGS

Every year about this time we are confronted with statements like this: That a farmer in Texas received $7 a ton for his cabbage; the buyer paid $28 a ton to have it hauled to Chicago, paying $7 a ton for icing on the way, making the total cost delivered at Chicago $42. It was sold at retail at 7 cents a pound, or $140 a ton. Neither the farmer, the railroad, the wholesaler nor the retailer are getting rich at the prices each receives for its part in the transaction, which means that it is the system that is wrong. There are too many middlemen apparently. We talk about our faulty distribution system, but nothing is done about bettering it. Is it because it can't be bettered?

Why is Chicago buying her cabbage away down in Texas anyway? It is quite apparent that if an Illinois farmer goes in for cabbage raising and has only Texas competition to meet in the Chicago market he can get close to $42 a ton gross for his stuff. If a Texas farmer can make money raising cabbages for a third of a cent a pound, won't there be big money in it for an Illinois farmer at two cents a pound? Do Illinois farmers market their cabbages in San Antonio and Houston? We market our apples in Chicago and the east and use New York and coast apples shipped in here. Are we all market-foolish?

Is voting an unpleasant duty? Ordinarily about half the people who are entitled to cast a ballot take the time and trouble to do it. Half of these would omit the ceremony if it were not for the constant reminders of the party committees and the newspapers. Nobody who wants to go to a football game or a theater party forgets the date or the necessary preliminaries to reserving seats. Those are pleasant things. Is voting something unpleasant? Or is it because it often seems so futile?

The people are not treating the politicians right. They have not indicated what shall be the issue in the forthcoming presidential contest. Nothing is quite so pathetic as the way in which the political leaders have been rummaging around in the old issue chest and then holding up first this and then that to see if it attracts any attention. None of them has. You cannot even get up an argument about the league of nations without much effort and search for somebody to debate it with. No domestic issue seems big enough to cause excitement. Are we treating the politicians right about this matter?

And why is it that the party leaders are always distraught about issues just before presidential campaigns? And why is it that nobody ever thinks of dusting off the party platforms of the last one and using the unsettled issues these raised for the purpose of lining up voters this time? Because we, the voters, are fickle-minded, and because we do not think things out for ourselves we are the prey of the ambitious and scheming. We are always, at least at the beginning of a campaign, against the party in power, altho we are old enough to know that changing the political complexions of administrations has not been a very effective method, since when the new party gets into power we start in being against it. The potency of the bloody shirt issue for so many years is still remembered by the politicians, and their one hope is to find another that will seize upon our imagination as strongly.

The movie papers say that a five year old baby actress is now earning $500,000 a year. What they mean is that the moving picture magnates are paying her parents that sum for the privilege of exploiting her winsomeness. The payment is all out of proportion to any possible value of the services rendered, and the moving picture business will not get down to a solid basis until it realizes what quid pro quo means. It is true that a particular film may always pay them so big that they make money at whatever ridiculous salary they pay the particular star, but there are many on which they lose money, and it is the balancing of losses and gains where any possible profit can be obtained. It is no wonder that the biggest producing house in the country recently shut down for six months.

BRAIN TESTS
(By Sam Loyd)

Six Minutes to Answer This.

I was initiated into the mysteries of "cinch" in the cardroom of the Steamship Bacteria. I lost the first game to Baron von D. and Count De C., who each won enough to double their stacks of chips. The baron and I scored the second game, thereby doubling our assets. Then the count and I won the third game, which doubled our chips. The mysterious feature of the situation was that each player had won twice and lost only once, each then having the same number of chips, altho I had lost $100. How much money did I start with?

Take one letter from the name of the first object, one from the second, one from the third, etc., and have the name of an animal. Repeat and have another animal. Repeat again, and have still another animal. What are the three animals?

Answer to yesterday's puzzle: DRAPE, RABID, EDUCE, SINEW, SOLID, DRESS and RADIO.

Sportsman's Digest: To make "pemmican" take jerked or dried beef strips and pound them to a powder or pulp, mix with warm fat beef tallow, sugar and raisins, pack in a dry place and it will last for years.

A handkerchief tied to the carcass of fresh killed game will keep flesh-eating animals away as they scent man.

Pick up water fowl from water by the head and shake them and they will be dry; pick them up by the wings or legs and the water gets under their feathers and makes them soaking wet.

To remove candle grease from clothing, take a hot spoon or iron of any kind, lay a piece of blotting paper on the grease spot, press the hot spoon or iron over it and it will clean the candle grease off at once.

THE NEBBS—Kind Words—BY SOL HESS.

WELL I PROMISED THE WIFE I'D COME DOWN AND APOLOGIZE FOR MY ACTIONS AT THE PARTY THE OTHER NIGHT — I'D A WHOLE LOT RATHER WALK INTO A HUNGRY LION'S CAGE AND PULL HIS WHISKERS
OFFICES OF CAESAR HEIT CONTRACTING COMPANY
HELLO, MR. HEIT, HOW ARE YOU TODAY?
WHAT DO YOU MEAN "MR." HEIT? SIT DOWN, RUDOLPH — MAKE YOURSELF AT HOME!
I WANT TO APOLOGIZE FOR MY ACTIONS AT THE PARTY — I IMBIBED A LITTLE TOO FREELY AND WASN'T JUST RESPONSIBLE — I DON'T REMEMBER HALF THE THINGS MY WIFE SAID I DID
APOLOGIZE? WHAT FOR? IT WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN A PARTY IF IT WASN'T FOR YOU! YOU WERE A SCREAM! WE'VE BEEN TALKING ABOUT IT EVER SINCE
I THOUGHT I'D DIE WHEN YOU CAME IN REPRESENTING THE KING WITH A TIN PAN ON YOUR HEAD AND LINK SAUSAGES AROUND YOUR NECK! WHY YOU EVEN GAVE THE MAYOR'S WIFE A LAUGH AND SHE HASN'T LAUGHED SINCE HE BECAME MAYOR — SHE THINKS IT ISN'T DIGNIFIED
DID I DO THAT TOO? THAT'S ONE MY WIFE DIDN'T MENTION — I WISH YOU'D CALL HER UP AND TELL HER HOW YOU FEEL ABOUT IT — SHE WONT BELIEVE ME. EVER SINCE THE PARTY MY HOME'S BEEN AS PEACEFUL AS EUROPE
